Novel Advertisement by Burlington.

The Burlington Route has issued a novelty which will be pleasing to children and grown-ups who have fallen victims to the craze for collecting art poster stamps, and has issued a sheet of ten elaborately colored designs representing scenery of the Rocky mountains, Glacier National Park, the Yellowstone National Park and two California expositions, and also two of the great West, Col. W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), and General Custer. These pictures are well executed, and are perforated so that they can be detached and pasted in albums or affixed to envelopes. They are being distributed from all Burlington passenger and ticket offices.

Children in almost every community of the United States have taken up the craze with a keenness and thoroughness that is astonishing. In many communities there are youngsters who have collections of from 500 to 1,000 different stamps.
