NUMBER 7

FIRST SALE IN COUNTY

By ALFRED FLINT.

The first sale of pure bred stocks ever held in Sherman county of home production of any amount, was held at Litchfield on Friday, January 28th, by A. D. Jones of his pure bred Hampshire hogs. It was his first public sale, although he has made many private sales, and considering the circumstances under which it was held—Cold stormy weather, and his first appearance before the public, and not a little prejudice—it must be considered a successful one. E. C. Stone of Peora, Ill., and secretary of the Hampshire breeders' association, and editor of the Hampshire Advocate, would have paid much higher prices for the hogs he purchased on orders from Alabama, Tennessee, Kansas, South Dakota, and Nebraska. He said in my hearing one gilt he bought for $56 was worth $150. He considers he bought some very cheap hogs for his patrons.

I have heard it remarked that his purchase were only a sales bluff and that they would go back to the farm, but any one at the depot on Monday morning would have seen six crates of hogs going south to the places mentioned. Total weight 4,150 lbs. you had ought to have seen brother Thompson's smile; $9.11 corn at 5 per cent. Who wouldn't? This sale was cried by Col. J. C. Price assisted in the ring by W. L. Miller of the South Omaha Stockman. Col. George Stote, R. A. Stouffer, Mr. Price, although he mixed his English brogue quite freely, certainly knows hogs, and can talk hogs intelligently, and is certainly an auctioneer of merit. You can't make a mistake by employing him, in regard to our well known local auctioneer, no remarks are necessary. But Stone! Oh my; he's a live wire. I could not possibly explain him. His talk on the Hampshire was worth going to hear without the sale. He was the life of the ring.

In regard to this breed of hogs I was like very many others are strongly prejudiced against it. I had only seen them from the distance, never having been close to them. I thought they were all head, almost rail splitter. I want to say that on close inspection I was most agreeably surprised for they have less head than any hog I ever saw. They are strictly a bacon hog, not lard; you get meat, not fat. I do not pretend to know all about hogs but I have handled them all my life until the last few years. I have raised and fed them and shipped them for many years, and butchering them for thirty years, not only wipe out all my prejudice, but pronounce them the best yielding hog to raise here, or anywhere else. They are the best dressers and the most meat yielding hog I ever saw—the meat the people want to buy.

A. D. Jones came to this county, north of Litchfield, about three years ago, with his heart wrapped up in bacon. He has certainly made a success of this special breed, as is shown by his many prize-winning ribbons, and right here let me show you boys on the farm what you can do with one of these sows if properly cared for. For this is what A. D. Jones did. He strated with one of these Hampshire sows a few years ago You farmer who have hogs on the farm that are getting a little restive and discontented, buy them—one of these Hampshire sows and yet them show you what they can do. The following extract gives a good account of Mr. Jones' career as a breeder of these hogs:

He appeared in 1914 at the Nebraska state fair, just a young man who had quit a good railroad job to satisfy his desire to raise Hampshire hogs. His desire was gratified to such a degree that he won first prize in the Senior Yearling Boar class where competition was plenty and in the hands of expert show men. A. D. Jones had never had the experience of showing hogs, but Litchfield Lad was so good that even a breeder of Duroc hogs, as judge, could see his superior quality. Harvey DeKalb, although he possessed a rather noted career, is a most competent judge of high quality Hampshire hogs. He persisted in declaring that Litchfield Lad was the best boar that he had seen, not only at the Nebraska state fair, but at any of the state fairs in the fall of 1914. Several other breeders which we could name, also believed that Litchfield Lad would not have been named the grand champion of the Nebraska state fair. In the year 1915, Mr. Jones returned to the Nebraska fair again, this time he brought Litchfield Lad, which was second only to a boar which had many times been first, and then he presented General Jones, a pig which he had purchased from E. N. Manley, of Lyons, Neb., in the junior yearling class. This boar was an easy first prize, although there were some very high priced boars and other boars of good quality in the show. This boar show was an exceptionally strong feature.

General Jones, under the judgment of Mike Sharp, of Coal Valley, Ill., arose to the grand champion boar of the show.

I am giving a list of the hogs sold by whom bought and where sent to:

Fred Richmond, 1 sow; Ed Lewis, 1 sow; Laurence, 1 sow; E. H. Butler, 3 sows; F. Benner, 1 sow; Frank Lamars, 2 sows; Bob Chapman, 2 sows; Wallace Douglas, 3 sows; George Gray, 2 sows; George Sinclair, 1 sow; Lee Van Winkle, 1 boar; Joe Speltz, 2 boars; J. B. OBITUARY.

Jurgen Friedrich Plumbeck was born the 24th day of February, 1857, in Hüllingstedt Province, Schleswig-Holstein, Germany. As a youth of 14 years he left home to make his living. When at the age of 15 he entered the German Marines where he served his Fatherland for ten years, sailing across most every ocean and high seas of the world, visiting almost every country of the earth. In March, 1882, he came together with his brother Claus, who died in 1908, to this country, America, and landed direct in the state of Nebraska, living for eleven years in Saunders county. In 1893, he moved to Sherman county, where he has lived ever since. The same year he was married to Magdalena Christiansen, of which happy union were born six children, three names are: George, Henry, Marzareth, William, Annie and Sophia, all of whom are living and are still at home with their mother.

Mr. Plumbeck was in all his life healthy and strong until about a year ago he became afflicted with cancer of the bowels and died last Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the faith of Christ Jesus our Savior. Mr. Plumbeck was one of those diligent, industrious, straightforward Germans, ever ready to help others when his help was needed. He leaves his wife, all of his children and two sisters, living in Germany to mourn him, with a large circle of friends and acquaintances, who will keep him at all times in good remembrance.

As a good and faithful member of the German Evangelical church he was buried last Thursday afternoon, Rev. Otto Schulz officiating, and was laid to rest in the Evergreen cemetery in the hope that our Redeemer Jesus Christ, when he has served here on earth through his grace will bring him to the blessed sphere above.

Mr. Plumbeck arrived at an age of 58 years, 11 months and 11 days. May the good Lord comfort and strengthen the bereaved widow and children.
