The Value of Thrift

In advocating and encouraging economy, we do not mean avarice or stinginess, but to do away with wasteful habits, to use your money, your time, your energy for the uplift, not only of yourself, but for the betterment of the community in which you live.

Genuine economy is free from all suspicion of meanness, of stinginess. It is commendable in every sensible man and woman. Some empty-headed fools—or the codfish aristocracy—may call it stinginess, but what do we care for that class.

We are not advocating any new fad. The successful men of all history have been the men that have practiced economy in time, energy and money.
