McKELVIE FOR GOVERNOR.

Successful Business Man.
One of the things frequently referred to in connection with the candidacy of S. R. McKelvie for governor is the fact that he has been an unusually successful business man. Though a young man, he has shown a foresight and executive capacity in business which commands the attention of observing business critics wherever he is known. His knowledge of Nebraska conditions, together with his natural business stability, is one of the several reasons why McKelvie is usually referred to as The Popular Candidate.

sustaining the restrictions placed upon trading stamp and coupon schemes by state legislatures. Under two of these decisions trading stamps are driven out of Florida and the state of Washington. It is interesting to note the lack of good opinion by the supreme court as evidenced by the statement in one of the decisions, which first treats of advertising as well defined, "with" nothing ulterior; it is the practice of old and familiar transactions and has sufficed." But the schemes of trading stamp promoters are declared to "have no such directness and effect they rely upon something else than the article so sold. They tempt by a promise of a value greater than that article and apparently not represented in its price, and it hence may be thought that thus by an appeal to cupidity, lure to improvidence. This may not be called in an exact sense, a "lottery," may not be called "gaming," it may, however, be considered as having the seduction and evil of such."

It is pleasant to have one's position confirmed by so distinguished a body as the United States supreme court for the above is entirely in accord with the position frequently stated in this correspondence in reference to the coupon and stamp practices of the American Tobacco company and other institutions, some of which are classed as "trusts." The sceptical supreme court speculates upon the system by saying: "It may well be thought there is something in it which is masked from the common eye and that the purchaser at retail is made to believe that he can get more out of the fund than he has put in it."

Cook Still Claims The Pole.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook was in Washington the other day, and made his annual claim to the pole. Dr. Cook insists that he "saw it first," and he wants an investigation by congress, to prove his statements. A good many people are beginning to wonder why it is that Dr. Cook should be denied the simple justice of "trial by his peers." The Peary claims are accepted almost without question, notwithstanding they were quite as hazy as those of Dr. Cook's. It is an easy thing to keep a man in the "fakir" class when he is all along denied the right to state his case before a fair tribunal.

Severe Case of Pan-Americanism

Director-General John Barrett, of the Pan-American Union, says that the Mexican situation will bring about a severe test of our friendly and helpful relations toward the Latin-American republics. He seems to think that if we make a clean job of handling Villa, that it will result in a boom for Monroe doctrines and the new all-American diplomacy. The little fellows down in South America feel that they have out-grown their swaddling clothes, and they like the partnership idea of settling the affairs of the new world. Barrett and other authorities believe that our future salvation rests in making the southern republics as useful to us as we are to them.

Borland's Silly Notion

Representative Borland of Missouri is the most unpopular man in Washington; all he cause he wanted to fire 3,500 civil service clerks who have nothing to do except to sign the pay roll; and to make the balance of the government clerks work from nine in the morning until five in the afternoon. The Washington Herald voices the plaint of the clerks in saying this was a "plan to saddle an excessive working day on the government clerks of Washington." The working day is all too long as it is, since there is hardly time for golf and tennis between half past four and "supper time." If Borland had studied his political economy he might have known that congress would hold to the old rule that "public office is a private snap," and would protect the people who are beneficiaries of the system.

Your home paper comes to you as an old friend and neighbor, telling you all the home news while the large city daily enters your home as a stranger.

Of course we deplore all of this strife that is robbing the world of its glory, but we decline to let it interfere with our Sunday dinners.

This angelic world is full of men who extol their virtues, but few are ever willing to admit that they are rotten to the core.

The advent of tramps, mosquitoes and other pestiferous insects is a sure indication of the approach of spring.

Every day sees us drawn closer to war. And yet the regularity of our snores is undisturbed.

In this great land of ours all men are equal, but many are not willing to admit it.

WASHINGTON LETTER

The Froth And The Flame.

A couple of years ago Washington newspaper writers were kept busy by the "crisis" in affairs with England, growing out of the Panama canal dispute, and one of the officials formerly at Panama has related within the past few days that the feeling was so bitter that nearly everyone on the Isthmus was ready to enlist, if they might have the privilege, to "go and fight England." And it was only the forefront of the present month that the executive and legislative branches of the government were seriously discussing going to war with Germany. In a few hours the nature of all the excitement changed, and the American "war correspondents" felt the thrill of delight at being back on the old job, with Mexico in the big headlines. No one can deny the seriousness of present conditions, but the greatest of all the American difficulties seem to rest in the hysteria and chip-on-the-shoulder attitude of our citizens. If the cool-headed people in control of public affairs continue to keep the mastery of the situation, and moth and the froth will escape most of the flame, and the United States will be the most respected nation of the world, because of its neutrality. The wonderful sense of right and justice guiding the present generation, is evidence of the wisdom of our democratic form of government.

Burton Stock is High.

A few days ago former Senator T. E. Burton, of Ohio, visited the floor of the senate. There was a noticeable stir of interest, and some one in the press gallery called attention to the fact that five men who had been more or less prominently mentioned for the republican nomination were in the chamber. However, as the weeks and days bring the Chicago convention closer, the number of men who continue to be regarded as actual "political timber," are decreasing. A few who were "favorite sons" in their own states a while ago, have already been relegated to the discard. One of the pivotal states this year is Ohio, the "home of presidents." It is united in its support of Burton, and indications are that it is going to be the republican field against his candidacy. There has been a good deal of talk to the effect that Mr. Wilson, in choosing his new Secretary of War from Ohio, anticipated a contest with Mr. Burton in the campaign, and used the occasion to strengthen himself in the state from which his opponent was likely to come. Mr. Burton has one of the best records of any man who has been in congress during recent years. He was a foe to "pork barrel" legislation and graft of every kind. In his last great fight upon the 1914 bill, his arguments were so strong that President Wilson was drawn into the open, and supported Burton, to the great discomfiture of partisans of his own political faith. This remarkable instance of a republican senator receiving the endorsement of the White house after having defeated the united opposition of members of all parties who had combined to get their own appropriations through by the old system of trading support, is unique in political history. In Washington Mr. Burton is regarded as one of the ablest men in public life during recent years. He is "presidential size," and since he is satisfactory to the different elements in the republican party, it is perfectly natural that his candidacy should be favorably received among the leading members of that party and particularly those who are most familiar with his career in the house and senate.

Half the joy of life comes from getting good out of things as we go along. Some of us are always putting off our enjoyments. After a while, we expect to take a rest, see a friend, read a book. But after a while never comes, the good times we are looking forward to lies as far away as ever. All our life is spent in meaning to overtake it and enjoy it. Meanwhile we toil, drudge, and grow old, passing by with unselfish eye the happiness we might get out of every day.

Feed Out Your Hogs Six Weeks Earlier.
In every lot of hogs on feed two or three weeks quickly and actually eat less than others. If all would fatten like these, the entire drove would be ready of the market six weeks earlier and to save six weeks feed is an item that you fully understand.
The hog that fattens easily must be in prime physical condition. The B. A. Thomas Hog Powder is a conditioner for hogs. It keeps their system clean and healthy and enables them to fatten quickly without falling a prey to the usual diseases of hogs. The B. A. Thomas Hog Powder is not stock food. It's straight medicine, and we took the agency because it enables you to feed out your hogs much earlier.—J. J. Slominski.

The "SILENT SMITH"

—Model 8 shows what should now be expected of a typewriter.

Ball Bearings, Long Wearing

The success of the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriters has been due to the fact that the wants of the user have dictated its construction. The user has decided in favor of certain improvements now incorporated in Model 8. Among them are:

Silence of Operation—The most silent running efficient typewriter ever placed on the market. Absolute silence has been very nearly attained.

Decimal Tabulator—A help in billing and tabulating. There is no extra charge for this convenience.

Variable Line Spacer—Enables the operator to start on a given line and space from point of starting; also to write on ruled lines whose spacing varies from typewriter spacing. A great help in card work.

Faster Ribbon Feed—Insures new place of impact for each typeface.

Choice of Carriage Return—Upon special order the new left hand carriage return will be furnished in place of the right hand return.

All the important features of previous models have been retained—ball bearing carriage, typebars and capital shift, back spacer, key-controlled ribbon, removable platen, protected type, flexible paper feed and automatic ribbon reverse.

Write for New Catalog of Model 8. It will explain why the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter is a synonym for superior service.
