NEW PLAN FOR TEST ASSOCIATION.

In sections of the state where there are not yet enough cows to form cow testing associations of the usual size (26 members owning at least 400 cows) smaller test associations which employ a tester cooperatively are sometimes organized. For example, two associations each of which consists of 12 to 14 members owning 200 cows employ a tester on full time jointly and allow him to spend half of his time with one association and half with the other. The number of members in each association will increase until each can employ a tester on full time. Further information may be had upon application to the dairy extension service of the state university, Lincoln.

If your hat could reveal the secrets it covers, it would blush a brilliant scarlet.

Never take the cat entirely out of the bag. Take it by the tail and pull it back.
