

"CASCARETS" ACT ON LIVER; BOWELS

No sick headache, biliousness, bad taste or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box. Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will make you feel fresh by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cents a box from your store.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Coated Tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipation. Adv.

Three persons lost their lives when a rowboat in which they were attempting to cross the Missouri at Decatur swamped, as the result of the rise in the river, and turned over. The victims, two men and a woman, lived on farms on the Iowa side of the river.

The Norfolk Commercial club is negotiating with the representative of an iron foundry, which considers moving to that city. The tractor and stacker factory has developed the need for an iron foundry there.

The date of the interscholastic track meet of Nebraska high schools will be held at Hastings, has been changed from May 11 to May 5, on account of the former date conflicting with the state college meet.

Callaway is showing his patriotism by contributing a goodly number of recruits to the Nebraska National guard. Up to April 18 twenty-two lads from that place had joined Company L. Fourth regiment.

Many wheat fields reported 50 per cent dead in Cheyenne county are now a bright green and will make a large yield. The recent heavy rains have worked wonders on the crop.

A Gage county farmer was fined $5 and cost the other day when he pleaded guilty to the charge of using obscene language in conversing over the telephone with the central girl.

The Dodge county branch of the Nebraska Defense league held its first meeting at Fremont last Thursday. Over 800 persons have signified their intention to join the league.

Members of Group No. 2, Nebraska Bankers' association will assemble at Columbus, May 22, for their annual meeting.

Seed potatoes are a scarce article just now. At Norfolk the other day not a bushel could be bought in the city.

Lightning struck a barn on the farm of Jacob Stan, near Greeley and nine horses, three cows, a quantity of grain and implements were destroyed.

Clover fields in Dodge county are dead and will have to be plowed up and seeded to other crops. It is said.

Work has commenced on Kearney's new $200,000 hotel. The structure will be seven stories high.

Hundreds of tons of dead fish, mostly carp and buffalo, strewn along the banks of the Elkhorn river in Dodge county are being hauled by farmers onto fields for fertilization purposes. The fish are believed to have either frozen or smothered to death during the past winter.

Farmers in Dodge and surrounding counties are plowing up the winter wheat fields and reseeded to spring wheat or other grain. Much of the land will be planted to corn. It is estimated that there is not over a tenth of the winter wheat crop alive.

The big questions to be taken up by the Nebraska Association of Commercial clubs at the annual meeting next month at Alliance will be irrigation, dry farming and co-operation between the farmer and federal government in relation to the present intensive farming agitation.

Nebraska is the only state that has not produced a single favorable reply for universal military training in a canvass by the National Security League of New York City. Mayors of cities of more than 5,000 in every state were asked to sign up the situation in their community. Of 378 answers 200 favored a universal training law by congress. Thirty-four mayors said their citizens were opposed to such action. Mayor William Madgett, Hastings, and former candidate for governor of Nebraska, wrote that he was personally in favor of universal training, but said Hastings seemed to want peace at any price.

Five thousand Nebraska boys and girls are expected to take part in home-school gardens in forty-five towns in the state which have taken up the work, under the direction of the agricultural extension service of the State university. Last year, 2,222 boys and girls in twenty-five towns and cities took part in the project. As a result of their work, 1,259 back yards and 345 vacant lots grew gardens. The total receipts from these gardens was nearly $12,000 in addition to nearly $2,000 worth of canned products.

Directors of the South Omaha Live Stock exchange passed a resolution urging all stockmen and farmers in this trade territory to discontinue marketing young cattle, hogs and sheep and further urged that they put to the fullest use all rough pasture and grain in feeding, raising and fattening cattle. This action was taken in co-operation with a nationwide campaign now being carried on by the National Live Stock exchange in the conservation of meat and food sources.

Following the idea of President Wilson that the people of this nation bend every effort toward conserving its productiveness and resources of all kinds in this time of war, the Union Pacific issued circulars to 15,000 of its employees between Omaha and Ogden, and on the branches, urging the men immediately to plant gardens, as large as they can secure and handle.

Blanche Trader, 2-year-old daughter of William Trader, a farmer living near Ashland, was killed by being drawn into a corn sheller driven by steam power. Her little body was literally crushed and chopped into shreds. The little girl was playing about the sheller and was drawn into the machine before she was seen. Before the power could be shut off she had been pounded into its jaws.

A rancher in Holt county has a Shetland pony that is very much human. The animal eats peanuts and candy and chews gum like any ordinary person. Its owner offered the horse a chew of tobacco the other day and to his astonishment it took a good sized chew of the weed.

Officers of the Deutsche Kriegerbund Landwehr Verein of Beatrice gave to the postmaster a German flag belonging to their order and requested that it be forwarded to President Wilson "as proof of the loyalty of Germans veterans."

The Dorsey ranch in Dodge county, formerly owned by Congressman G. W. E. Dorsey, was sold at referee's sale for $35 an acre. The ranch comprises 900 acres. John Lingo of Essex, la., bought it, paying $75,500.

Farmers in the vicinity of Mason City have expressed the opinion winter wheat is not as badly hurt as previous estimates indicated. With warm rains the wheat is coming out nicely.

A movement is on foot at Hastings to erect an auditorium in the city that will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000.

Gage county farmers are contemplating planting more corn this year than ever before.

James Peters, an old army man, is organizing a company of rookies at Harrison.

One Nebraska man was indicted on a charge of threatening the president of the United States by the federal grand jury at Omaha. He is Henry Van Tighre, Clearwater. He was placed under a bond of $3,000. Penalty for the offense is $1,000 fine or five years in prison, or both.

Seven hundred telegraph poles were blown down and several hundred miles of telegraph line put out of commission on the Burlington west of McCook by the sleet and snowstorm that swept over that section of the state just recently.

Sixty city lots that ordinarily grow to weeds have been leased by the Fremont Community Garden club, plowed and harrowed and will be assigned to members of the club for gardening. A rental of $2.50 a lot will be charged and assistance in a financial way will be given those who are unable to pay for seed at the time of planting. Interest in the movement is growing.

The revival meeting held in the Methodist church at Cedar Rapids resulted in sixty-five conversions and many reconsecrations.

The New Friends' church at Springbank, Dixon county, was dedicated recently. The new church cost about $6,500. Springbank is the oldest religious organization in northeastern Nebraska.

NEW-STATE HOME FOR DEPENDENTS

NEARLY 100 ARE NOW READY FOR ADOPTION

BOARD LEASES MORE GROUND

Items of General Interest Gathered from Reliable Sources Around the State House

Western Newspaper Union News Service. With the completion of the new home for dependent children in Lincoln, and the return to this institution of fifteen babies which have been boarded out, the state board of control announces that it has between ninety and 100 babies which may be adopted into good homes. The plan of boarding babies out will be abandoned.

Chairman Mayfield of the board of control says that among the babies ready for adoption are many kiddies that are really beautiful, and that all of them are healthy and well-behaved. Mr. Mayfield is paying personal attention to the home for dependent children, and asks all wishing a boy or girl, of any age from a few months up to 14 years, to come to Lincoln, visit the home and make their selections. None but healthy children are sent out, he says, and a complete record of each is supplied.

State Board Rents More Ground

To feed and maintain the 5,000 inmates of the fifteen state institutions of Nebraska, with 800 officers and attendants, is going to require the mobilization of the best resources of the state board of control, in the face of the present high prices destined to go higher with the war with Germany on.

The board has already sent out orders to institution superintendents to use every effort to cut down expenses, dispense with luxuries, utilize every available foot of ground for garden truck and crops and retrace generally in all lines of expenditures.

The big question now with the board is to get each institution to raise as much produce as possible on its own institutional grounds.

To this end the board has rented 100 more acres of ground at the state penitentiary in addition to the 255 acres of its own. A hundred acres of wheat, killed by the winter, will be put into corn, so that the corn acreage there this fall will be 200 acres.

Will Help Conservation of Resources

Chairman E. O. Mayfield of the state board of control says that the state appreciates Governor Neville's expressed wish that every citizen make a special effort to husband resources and increase wherever possible the products from field and garden. On its part, the state board of control will see to it that every available acre of land is planted and carefully looked after, with the end in view that expenses at the various institutions may contribute as much as possible to the expense of their operation. Wherever there is land attached to one of the institutions, no matter how small the amount, gardens will be planted more extensively than in the past, if possible.

The Revised Compensation Law

The committee of the whole, with Sprink in the chair, has finished consideration of the employers' liability and workmen's compensation law. It was a substitute bill offered by the senate committee on labor. After it had been amended somewhat by Moriarty of Douglas it was ordered engrossed for a third reading.

For Council of Defense

Without a protesting vote the house adopted the conference committee report on H. R. 423, the bill placing the Nebraska national guard under the provisions of the national defense act and raising the salaries of members of the adjutant general's staff. The measure had been amended to conform with Governor Neville's request for a state council of defense. This council will consist of eleven members, each member to draw $5 a day during actual service.

Shipped 2,000,000 Bushels of Grain

Nebraska producers shipped 2,000,000 bushels of grain during the month of March, a large part of which was wheat, according to figures in the hands of the Nebraska railway commission. This does not include re-consignments. With April and the war with Germany coming on, the shipments fell to almost no grain movement, due, it is said to a shortage of the wheat supply and the holdings of it for higher prices in the face of the present crisis.

Capital National Bank Again

Five of the six members of the joint senate and house committee appointed to investigate the possibilities of collecting $194,502.02, the sum the state lost in the failure of the Capital National bank in Lincoln in 1893, are in favor of pressing the matter further with the view of collecting the loss from the directors of the bank. These five are asking the legislature to appropriate $5,000, of which $1,000 they ask to be set aside for further investigation of the possibilities of making the collection.

GOES TO THE GOVERNOR

Senate Adopts Conference Report on Prohibition Bill

The senate adopted the conference report on the prohibition bill by a vote of 30 to 3, Wednesday morning, after an hour of harmony talks by the so-called drys and others. The bill as amended by the senate and the joint conference committees is now ready for the governor's signature.

The session was marked by a verbal review of the fight for the senate amendments, with admissions from the "dry" that the bill as it passed the house was unworkable.

The "dry" also took occasion, on the challenge of Moriarty of Douglas, to pay a tribute to Robertson, of Holt, who fought for the amendments in the face of scorn and jeers from a part of the press and from fanatics in every corner of the state, who denounced his action. "The drys" were frank to admit his good faith. The prohibition bill will be signed by the governor, it is expected, and will become effective May 1.

April 27 and 28 Clean-Up Days

Governor Neville has named April 27 and 28 as clean-up days in Nebraska, and Fire Commissioner Ridgell appends his proclamation to a bulletin suggesting methods for observing this day by cleaning up waste and rubbish that increases fire hazard.

The $2,000,000 fire loss in Nebraska annually could be materially reduced, said Commissioner Ridgell, by co-operation of civil, business and social organizations to take steps to prevent the accumulation of hazardous waste. The governor's proclamation reads:

"Every precaution should be taken to provide against the destruction of life and property by fire. The record of past years show that much of the waste caused by fire comes from carelessness on the part of those who allow the accumulation of waste and inflammable material.

The state deputy fire commissioner has issued his annual statement calling attention to the necessity of the exercise of care on the part of all, in order that loss by fire may be reduced to the minimum.

I am in hearty sympathy with all he says on the subject and request the people to observe the warnings given. I recommend that the teachers of our public schools call attention to the day by extra fire drills or other exercises that will tend to promote a conviction in the minds of the young of the necessity of care on their part in handling matches, explosives or other inflammable substances that, at times, produce conflagration and bring ruin to homes and sometimes whole communities.

I, therefore, name and set aside April 27 and 28, 1917, as clean-up days and urge a general observance of the same.

Full Credit for Enlisted Students

The state university senate has decided that all seniors who enlist for service for the government will be granted full credit and awarded their diplomas in absentia without fees. All other students who enlist will be given full credit for their work this semester. Chancellor Avery, in an address to the faculty, urged that all past bitterness because of statements made by different professors should be forgotten, and that the faculty should stand united behind the government during the war. He called to the attention of the professors the fact that they have had absolute freedom of speech and have ranged themselves as either pro-ally or pro-German. Now their duty is to forget these things and support the president in every way possible, he asserted.

Senior university students who enlist for service in the war will be given full credit during absence and awarded their diplomas without fee.

Flag Display on School Buildings

Lieutenant Governor Howard presented a petition addressed to the senate asking for the passage of H. R. 739, a bill requiring the display of the flag on school buildings and state educational institutions on national holidays and special school occasions. The attention of the senate was called to the bill and as a result the bill was resurrected from the general file, where it died some time ago by a motion killing all bills not on the sitting file.

Will Have to Use Old Statutes

No new statutes will be printed this year by the state and up-to-date statutes of Nebraska said to be contemplated by a Denver house for preparation after the present legislature has adjourned are not approved by the state. This news was given out by Secretary of State Pool to quiet hundreds of rumors circulated over the state in response to users of statutes, who will thus have to resort to their 1913 statutes and supplementally to the session laws of 1915 and 1917.

Charge District Judges

Governor Neville signed the judicial reappointment bill giving one additional district judge to the Fourth and Tenth districts and shifting several small counties in northwest Nebraska. Simultaneously with this announcement the governor stated that he had appointed W. M. Morning, of Lincoln, as Lancaster county's fourth judge. Mr. Morning was a presidential elector at the November election. He has practiced law here many years.

Capital National Bank Again

Five of the six members of the joint senate and house committee appointed to investigate the possibilities of collecting $194,502.02, the sum the state lost in the failure of the Capital National bank in Lincoln in 1893, are in favor of pressing the matter further with the view of collecting the loss from the directors of the bank. These five are asking the legislature to appropriate $5,000, of which $1,000 they ask to be set aside for further investigation of the possibilities of making the collection.

CHARGED BY MOOSE

Colonel Roosevelt Relates Exciting Episode of Hunting Trip.

Forced in Self-Defense to Kill Animal Which Trained and Attacked Party in Woods.

In "A Book-Lover's Holiday in the Open," Col. Theodore Roosevelt takes his readers into the less familiar corners of both North and South America. Many of his experiences were exciting, but perhaps the most thrilling was his encounter with a bull moose when on a recent hunting trip in Quebec.

"When we were half a mile from the landing," he says, "we saw a big bull moose on the edge of the shore ahead of us. He looked bigger than the one I had shot that morning, and his antlers were rather more palatial. We paddled up to within a hundred yards of him, laughing and talking, and remarking how eager we should have been if we had not already got our moose."

"At first he did not seem to notice us. Then he looked at us, but paid no further heed. We were surprised, but he did not realize who we were. But another hundred yards put us to windward. Instead of turning into the forest when he got our wind, the moose merely bristled up the hair on his withers, shook his head and walked along the shore after us. Plainly he meant mischief. So we turned the canoe round and paddled on our back track. But the moose promptly turned and followed us along the shore. We yelled at him, and Odilon struck the canoe with his paddle, but with no effect.

"For more than an hour he thus kept us from the shore, running to meet us wherever we tried to go. The afternoon was waning, and a cold wind began to blow. He was not a pleasant-looking beast to meet in the woods in the dusk. We were at our wits' ends to know what to do. At last he turned, shook his head and, with a flourish of his hind legs, galloped—not trotted—for 50 yards up along the little river that paralleled the portage trail. I called Arthur's attention to that, as he had been telling me that a big bull never galloped. Then the moose disappeared at a trot around the bend. We waited a few minutes, cautiously landed and started along the trail, watching to see if the bull were lying in wait for us. Arthur told me that if he now attacked us I must shoot him at once or he would kill someone.

"A couple of hundred yards on, the trail led within a few yards of the little river. As we reached that point a smashing in the brush beyond the opposite bank caused us to wheel; and the great bull came bounding for us. Arthur called to me to shoot. With a last hope of frightening him I fired over his head, without the slightest effect. At a slashing trot he crossed the river, shaking his head, with his ears laid back and the hair on his withers bristling.

"Tirez, m'sieu, tirez; vite, vite!" called Arthur, and when the bull was not 30 feet away I put a bullet into his chest, in the sticking point. It was a mortal wound, and stopped him short.

Privileges of Consuls

Consuls do not occupy the same favored position as diplomatic agents in the eyes of international law. Their business is not with affairs between state and state, but with protecting the interests of individuals in a foreign country. Thus, though they enjoy several of the immunities of a public minister, they do so as a courtesy, not as a right.

All civilized custom, however, secures them a safe-conduct, and their papers and in many cases the consular buildings are held inviolable. In practice, though not by law, consuls themselves are not subject to arrest, save for serious crime, and this exception holds good also in the case of diplomats, though these would probably only be detained until taken into their own country's custody.

Why She Sent a Substitute

The loan department of the welfare board and the woman outside the rail had agreed on the amount of the loan she wished on the diamond ring, says the Kansas City Star.

"Your name?" the loan clerk asked. "It isn't my ring," she replied. "It belongs to a friend."

Sincerity in Taste

The only sure way to cultivate taste is by the exercise of a fearless sincerity. To adopt the opinion of another as to what we feel or ought to feel is an absurdity in terms. Feeling is a private experience; the pretense of feeling is a peculiarly dangerous form of untruth. The honest, perfectly truthful beginner in the study of pictures will like and dislike with vengeance. But a simple unbiased, leisurely readiness to accept what the painter has to show us will lead in time to a growth of insight.

As our knowledge and receptivity increase we shall find that we grow less intolerant of the things which at first we did not like. Our taste will tend to become catholic.—Mary Innes.
