Washington, July 11.—Because the loss of the "trigger finger" had prevented his enlistment, Walter Cogswell, age 19, of Binghamton, N. Y., walked all the way from that city to Washington to make personal application to the Major General Commandant of the U. S. Marine corps. Forged a sign on his back which read "From Binghamton, N. Y., to Washington, D. C., to join the U. S. Marines if your worth it!" Upon his arrival here young Forse proved that the loss of the index finger of his right hand was no handicap in the performance of military duty, and special authority was granted for his enlistment. So far as is known, he is the first man, similarly handicapped, to pass the military authorities.

Washington, July 11.—A new card that will soon appear on many houses throughout the United States has been prepared for distribution by the U. S. Marines. It has been designed to replace cards, formerly distributed by that organization, that read: "A man from this house is serving in the United States Marine Corps." The new announcement, printed in white and blue letters on a fac-simile of the French tricolor, bears the simple but more impressive legend: "A man from this house is fighting in France with United States Marines."

A fisherman came into town the other day with a string of fish, among which were a couple of carp, which reminds us of a story about how to cook carp. Carp is not generally considered an eatable fish, but the way to handle it is to stuff it with rich dressing, place the fish on a pine board and bake it in a hot oven. Then throw the carp away and eat the board.—Aurora Republican.

Washington, July 11.—Not the least important part of a fighting man's equipment to be used by the U. S. Marines on the firing line, is the emergency ration. It will enable the sea-soldier to stick to his guns and keep up his physical strength when cut off from the base of supplies by the enemy barrage or other causes. Every marine on expeditionary duty is supplied with a half-pound tin case containing a two day's supply of food, consisting of chocolates and a condensed meat and vegetable compound that may be made into soup, or eaten raw if there is no opportunity to prepare it.

Buy A New Binder Now

I would advise party wanting binders this year or in the next three years, to buy them this year. A seven ft. Deering binder complete will cost you $175. This same binder in 1918 will cost you $225 or more which would be 8 per cent interest on $175 to August 1, 1921. If you buy a binder now and give your note at 8 per cent interest until August 1, 1921, it would be cheaper than buying at that time, while you have the use of the binder for three years in case of a large wheat crop in 1918 it will be impossible to furnish half the demand for binders.

Buy your binder this year and save from $50 to $60 and be sure to have one for the 1918 crop.
