

A Proclamation! By the Governor of the State of Nebraska

In view of the unusual economic conditions in Nebraska due to the low price of agricultural products which is causing a large number of mortgages to be foreclosed on farms, homes and personal property, I recently appointed a state board of conciliation that will, in my judgment, be able to satisfactorily settle all disputes between debtor and creditor.

While the board is completing its statewide organization that will take and esteem. but a few days and pending the enactment by the legislature of an effective mortgage respite or moraforium act,

I, Charles W. Bryan, Governor of Nebraska, do hereby proclaim that an emergency exists, and I call upon all owners and holders of mortgages on Nebraska farms and homes to suspend all foreclosures and forced sales and to withhold all court proceedings of every nature until the Board of Conciliation completes its organization and until the legislature and congress can act.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Governor's seal to be affixed.

Hope for the Farmers!

During the last few days, developments at Lincoln have again aroused hope in the breasts of the Nebraska farmers.

The forces of reaction that for twenty years have triumphed there received a temporary setback in the proclamation of Governor Bryan, the creation of the board of conciliation, and the action of the Nebraska house of representatives in approving the moratorium and anti-deficiency judgment

This is no more special privilege legislation than is the bill already passed by the legislature, signed by the governor and now in effect which permits the basis so sound that the foundations banks to reopen and transact business after being closed by the department of trade and commerce. These institutions can work out of their difficulties if given a chance. So can the honest, industrious farmer if given equal opportunity with the banker, the railroad and the land bank. And these have been given special loans to tide them over.

Now it is time to extend hope and encouragement to farmer and home owner.

George Washington

One heroic figure in our national hall of fame, whose memory transcends all partisanship and sectionalism, is that of George Washington, It will be many years before any other American soldier or statesman becomes such a figure of national honor. Indeed, we doubt whether, even after the lapse of ages, our nation will ever have produced another character commanding such universal respect

Yet Washington in his lifetime was the target for abuse and vilification such as few presidents since his day have had to bear. A British traveler and author, writing in 1795, told how many men refused to drink to the President's health at the celebration of his birthday. When Washington retired to private life at the end of his second term as President, one of the foremost of the newspapers then in existence declared that it was time teenth day of February, in the year of for public rejoicing, "for the man who level with his fellow citizens and is number. the American nation has been deceived by Washington.'

Very few men in high place escape such calumny. There is something in human nature which resents the idea that one man is superior to others But it did not take the American people long to realize that in George Washington they had had a leader who was probably the only man that could have successfully led the revolt against British domination and established our nation on an independent laid by him have never been shaken. The wisdom of Washington's warnings and admonitions to the young republic of which he was the first president become more and more clearly apparent as time goes on. Particularly at this time we are impressed with his warning to the young nation to avoid entangling alliances with Europe. That was not intended, of course, as an admonition to detach America from the rest of the world: it was rather an admonition that we should maintain friendly relations with all nations and not beallied with some in opposition to others. We think this an opportune time to remind our political leaders and the people of America again of Washington's warning

The washing machines are going to college. But in this case the regular procedure has been reversed. It is the institution that is doing the studying. When the University of Nebraska ends its observations next June it expects to have new information of much value to housewives.

American washing machine manufacturers are represented by a full array of washers which home economic experts of the university and Mc-Call's magazine are using in a series of tests. Each washer maker today knows from factory tests how the housewife can get maximum benefits from his machines. The Nebraska study is expected to produce a number of special discoveries for the benefit of the housewives in general.

How "Bill" Gets By

By John Joseph Gaines, M.D. Bill lives in my town,-in yours too. If the Bills in this land were organized, they would make a formidable political party.

There are some fifteen doctors in my town. When Bill moved here he enquired around for the most popular doctor and retained him as his family physician-as long as the doctor would do his work without pay, which was over two years.-The doctor became too insistent about his pay

Then, our hero sought the formidable competitor of the leading doctor-and recited the two years of 'robbery" that he had endured. The ambitious competitor swallowed the hook, line and sinker! He treated Bill's infirmities as long as he could afford to without remuneration; some competitors are that way.

Then Bill sought the doctor that lived farthest away from his neighhood, who had never heard of the experience of his contemporaries with the new patron. He grabbed Bill with open arms. Out of this doctor, Bill got a couple of tonsillectomies, two obstetrical pervices and several bedside influenza cases, before the doctor awakened to the real situation.

Every physician that ever touched Bill came away with a waterhaul! At last Bill moves to another town, full of invective for the last place of abode. It was a hick town, with the meanest people in it in the world! Those of my readers who are acquainted with Bill know that he can tell you just how the United States Senate ought to perform! It will take a long time to educate some folks to the point of getting above the tactics of Bill-the fellow that public opinion alone can remove from our midst.
