From the Wise
 He—Fee fi fo fum! I smelt the blood of an Englishman. Who's in my house?
 She—Not so loud, dear. He's a Jew.
 First Hen—My eggs are strictly fresh.
 Second Hen—How can you tell?
 First Hen—They're dated; just like Chase & Sanborn Coffee.
 Betty Loren—Have you ever been in a quarry—It's an awful feeling.
 Helen McWilliams—No, how do you feel?
 Betty—It's like being in a quarry and yet it's different.
 J. R. Lillard (to Chris McCoy)—Boy, you know the laundryman left me the wrong bundle last week.
 Chris—Too bad, could you use anything?
 J. R.—Only the handkerchiefs and that's nothing to blow about.
 Bob Lee—You should learn to type-write, then you wouldn't mind writing letters.
 Roscoe Beck—Shucks, I'd be so old by the time I learned to operate a typewriter that my beard would catch in the machinery and ruin typewriter, whiskers, chin and all.
 Teacher—Late again, Ernestine. Don't you ever use your alarm clock?
 Ernestine Taylor—Yes, but it's no longer alarming me.
 Husband—I'm terribly worried about my wife.
 Friend—My word! What has she got?
 Husband—The car.
 He—I suppose you've heard rumors of my engagement to Blanche?
 Other—Yes, if it's true I congratulate you; if it isn't true, I congratulate Blanche.
 Literature Lore
 Wishes
 I wish I owned a pretty house

With winding vines along the wall,
 A bright brass knocker on the door,
 And softened lamplight in the hall,
 I wish I had a wide old hearth
 Where logwood knots would roar
 and blaze,
 And we could sit and sip our tea,
 And read old books on wintry days.

Friendship
 Of all the things beneath the heaven
 That man has made or God has given,
 None draws the soul so sweet away
 As—Friendship.

Just Gossip
 Mrs. Andrews was out on her porch watering her flowers, when Mrs. Bennett darted out of her door and started a friendly chat.
 "Well now, Mrs. Andrews, don't you think that's just too bad about the Blondell girl?"
 "What's wrong with her? I hadn't heard anything," exclaimed the wondering Mrs. Andrews.
 "You don't say! Why, I thought everyone knew that. Yes, the poor girl has lost her mind. Pretty bad off, they say."
 "Humph, that isn't anything. My boy Jack said he saw Mr. Boulby tearing madly up and down his porch yesterday. Jack says he was muttering something about being disgusted and catching the next train out of town," said Mrs. Andrews.
 "My dear, I didn't know. I'll just call Mrs. Boulby and console her," replied Mrs. Bennett.
 "No, no, I wouldn't disturb her. You know she might be busy with—Oh, there's the phone. Just a minute. Maybe that's her now!" and in the house rushed Mrs. Andrews.
 After what seemed an age to the impatient and gossip-loving Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Andrews returned to her porch.
 "Who was it," asked the nosy Mrs. Bennett.
 "It was Mrs. Boulby, as I thought, poor dear. She said not to tell you that her husband is leaving. No, not at all. Nor am I telling you that he went to New York for a job. And you would be sure to tell if you knew that Mr. Boulby was fired from his old job, so I'll just keep it to myself." So saying, Mrs. Andrews gave Mrs. Bennett a triumphant look and a grand toss of her head.
 "Thank you very much for the news, Mrs. Andrews, and good-day. I'll be seeing you," Mrs. Andrews went inside.
 "Well now, just what did I tell her that's so newsy! The old meddlesome bother."
 And so another bit of fence gossip came to a close.
 Betty Loren.

35 Years Ago
 Thirty-five years ago this month events were moving rapidly toward the short but spirited struggle known to history as the Spanish-American War, which freed Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines from Spanish misrule.

 American feeling was running high against Spanish atrocities in Cuba, when the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor on February 15, 1898, killing 26 officers and men. April 11th President McKinley told congress that in the name of humanity and civilization the war being waged against the Cubans by the Spaniards must stop. On April 19th congress demanded that Spain withdraw from Cuba, and authorized the use of American land and sea forces to accomplish this result. War officially began on April 21st.
 Regular army and national guard troops were mobilized at Tampa, Mobile and other Southern points; Dewey's fleet was ordered from Hong Kong to destroy the Spanish fleet at Manila; Sampson and Schley prepared to meet Cervera's Spanish fleet which was on its way to West Indian waters from Cape Verde Islands.
 The end of April thus saw the stage set for action. On May 1st, Dewey easily defeated the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay; on July 1st, the main assault on Santiago by Shafter's army began; on July 3rd, Cervera's fleet was destroyed while trying to escape from the Santiago harbor, and the Spanish land forces at Santiago surrendered to Shafter on July 17th. Aside from minor engagements in Porto Rico, the fall of Santiago virtually ended Spain's resistance, hostilities being formally ended by the protocol of August 13th.
 Peace was declared through the Treaty of Paris, signed on December 10, 1898, and later ratified by both nations, whereby Spain acknowledged Cuba's independence, ceded Porto Rico to the United States and received 20 million dollars for the Philippines.
 These are the high spots in a brief but dramatic war which had far-reaching consequences for many millions of people and established the United States as a great world power.

The Income Tax
 The income tax bills of Representative Cushing and Senator McCarter are attracting considerable attention in the legislature. Cushing has an elaborate bill along the lines of the usual income tax proposition. He has devoted much study to it. McCarter's bill is short. It is one per cent replacement tax on gross income with no exceptions. Some claim it is really a sales tax.
 The death of Dr. L. A. Sherman will come as a personal loss to all the alumni of the state university. His passing is a distinct loss to the world of literature.
 Dr. Sherman came to the university at a time when his culture and knowledge were potent factors in molding the literary ideals of the state.
