Rev. O. J. Burckhardt, formerly of this city, accompanied Rev. Askerneese to California and is the guest of Bishop and Mrs. Wm. A. Washington.

The Sports Front With Smoky

Although the weather man predicts snow for Saturday's game, this hasn't lowered the Huskers hopes of giving the Cyclones something besides bad weather to worry about on Saturday. It seems the Cyclones have had the edge over Nebraska in their last three games, so you can readily see the Huskers will be in there tooth and toe nail trying to put an end to this winning streak.

Coach Bill Pfeiff's Lincoln High gridders will be making their final bid Friday night for a perfect season when they take to the road again, this time out state to visit the Islanders. With the Links now holding first place in the state they should have little trouble.

As the eyes of the Sport World are slowly turning to basketball we find the boys of the Lincoln Urban League still very hard at work. About 30 or 40 fellows have been reporting for practice and are shaping up nicely. Several different combinations have been working together but no team has actually been chosen.

Henry McWilliams and Roland Delaney who are coaching the fellows are hoping for at least two or three good teams from the Junior fellows and the same from the Seniors when the season gets into full swing.
