The Sports Front With Smoky

In a year when such great and significant strides have been made, it is only natural that the men and institutions who are mainly responsible for the gains deserve to be cited for their contributions. Here is our "Sports Honor Roll" for the past year:

Branch Rickey—Broke down baseball's unwritten barrier against Negro players by signing Jackie Robinson and four others to Brooklyn farm clubs.

Paul Brown, Coach of Cleveland Browns—Voluntarily signed two Negro players to play with his team in the All-American Conference.

Chick Davies, Coach of Duquesne University Basketball Team—Refused to bench his Negro star, Charley Cooper, in game against Tennessee. Game was cancelled.

Nevada and Penn State—Refused to play games against Miami University without Negro football players on their respective teams.

Howie Odell, Yale football Coach—Gave Levi Jackson a chance to play on Yale football team, and became first Negro to do so.

Ray Elliot, Illinois Football Coach—Carried more Negro players on his football squad than any other major college coach in the Nation.

Clay Hopper, Manager of Montreal—Despite the fact that he hails from Mississippi, did everything he could to inspire Jackie Robinson to greater heights.

The Urban League Cagers met defeat at the hands of the sharp shooting Omaha Y.M.C.A. Cagers by a score of 55-39. The leaguers set the pace for a short time in the opening minutes of the game but were soon overcome by the speedy Omahans.

A game to be long remembered and talked about by football fans will be the Rose Bowl game, in which Illinois defeated an undefeated and favored UCLA by a score of 45 to 14. Buddy Young, flashy Negro star and team mates seemed to have little trouble with the UCLans. Young, who runs the 100 yds. in 9.5 seconds scored two touchdowns. Buddy has two more years of Collegiate playing time so we should see greater things from him in 1947.
