War Memorial Bowl Dedicated Sunday

Some three thousand persons packed Pinewood Memorial Bowl Sunday night at its official dedication as a living memorial to the dead of World War II.

The Bowl is not completed, but, Mayor Miles, who dedicated the Memorial, said solicitation of funds for this purpose would be continued.

The Bowl is a natural amphitheater located in the heart of Pioneer Park and will be used for band concerts and other civic presentations.

Touring The South

Donavan Ray Gatus, just turned 12, is looking at the world thru newly acquired "rose-colored glasses."

He is taking an extended tour of the South in the company of Mr. John Miller, a seasoned traveler. They will visit many states and places of interest, as well as some relatives, before returning to Lincoln.

Donovan, son of Mrs. Maud Johnson is in the seventh grade and collects airplanes. He is a star newsboy for The Voice.

Racial Adjustments In Business Discussed

Experts on racial minorities at the Institute of Race Relations at Fisk University continued their discussion last week on labor and management problems and racial adjustment in business.

The establishment of a broad, fair employment policy on the part of both management and labor, implemented through co-operative day-by-day practices, has been advocated as one solution to current racial problems in industry.

Dr. Joseph Lohman of Chicago University said race is being used as a tool of competing interest groups. He added that improvement in race relations in America depends more upon control of vested-interest groups than upon individual attitudes.—

Dr. McMillian To Practice in Omaha

Dr. Aaron M. McMillan, medical missionary and noted surgeon is resuming the practice of medicine here after 18 years of work in Angola, Portuguese, West Africa. During his residence there he established the one-hundred-thirty bed Willis F. Pierce Memorial Hospital where in treating tens of thousand of natives and Europeans, he became one of the most eminent surgeons in the world.

Mr. McMillian first came to Omaha in 1920 to visit his father, the late Rev. Henry R. McMillan, then pastor of the Mt. Moriah Baptist Church. After receiving his degree from Meharry Medical College and serving his internship he opened an office in Omaha. In 1928 he was elected to the State Legislature; leaving the following year to work under the Board of Foreign Missions of the Congregational Church.

The next eighteen months was spent in Portugal where he studied the language of the territory to which he was being sent and obtained after a post-graduate medical course at the University of Lisbon, a Portuguese Medical license. He also done post-graduate work in surgery at the University of Paris.

The doctor and his family returned to the United States only once during their extended service in the eastern hemisphere.

Dr. McMillian's decision recalls to us an article about his work in the Reader's Digest written by Linton Wells after a visit to the Mission in 1942. "Some day," said the doctor, "I would like to come (Continued on page 4)
