MINISTER, 26, CHANGES INTO 'COLORED MAN'

Madison, Wis. (UP). A young minister spent his first day as a "colored man" Monday after turning his back on the white race so that he could fight discrimination more effectively.

The Rev. Kenneth L. Patton announced in his sermon Sunday that he was "throwing in his lot with the people of color."

The 26-year old pastor of the First Unitarian society said he got his idea from Sinclair Lewis' novel, "Kingsblood Royal." In the book, Neil Kingsblood, a banker, discovered he had Negro blood and disgusted by a growing movement against Negroes in his hometown revealed he was part Negro.

Patton said he had searched his own ancestry and found he was "part Indian."

"I am determined to fight this silly and vicious discrimination against colored people," he said.

Patton also proposed that all non-Caucasians band into a "united colored race of the world."—Mon. Journal.

NUTTY DIET

In Geneseo, Ill., a small boy missed nuts and bolts from a set of mechanical toys. The parents had the dog X-rayed and found the animal had eaten some three dozen odd pieces of metal, including 30 screws and five brads. Trying to get his iron, no doubt. If you have a problem you want to iron out, why not try a VOICE WANT AD? They seldom miss when it's a matter of getting results in a hurry at a small cost!

One Bad Turn—

When our local druggist went to pick up his long-awaited new car, he found the model completely equipped with fog lights, radio, spotlight, heater, seat covers, and all the extras which dealers try to foist off on buyers these days. His objections were met with, "Take it or leave it." The druggist took it—reluctantly.

A few days later the automobile dealer came into the drugstore with a prescription. When he wrapped up the medicine, the druggist included aspirin, hot water bottle, vitamins, cough syrup, nose spray, and other supplies for the medicine chest. The dealer's protests were brushed off with, "Take it or leave it." And he took it!

Many men do not allow their principles to take root, but pull them up every now and then, as children do the flowers they have planted, to see if they are growing. —Longfellow.

What Is The Negro's Place

A minority in a society has two choices: For one thing, it can feel sorry for itself and through pressure and sentimental appeal try to get as much charity as possible from the majority. Or in the second place, it can become a prophetic group, pointing the way towards the better life. Society is both saved and destroyed by its minorities.

So far as the Negro is concerned, he has chosen the healing role. While there has been exceptions, of course, the Negro has shown by his patience, his willingness to learn and his humor, that brotherhood and democracy are workable.

American life would be immensely impoverished without the Negro. His place is a heroic one. It is nothing less than the task of doing for our democratic life what the Jew did for our religious life. If the road seems uphill all the way, let him never forget that through his efforts we are all moving upward. To be a worthy member of a great minority means to be better than the average person is willing to be.

Sincerely,
Gerald Kennedy

NEGRO LAD SPARKLES

Harold Taylor, the Negro freshman who sparkled as a trackman last spring, was one of the hotshots during a long scrimmage of Tech seconds.

His performance at right half-back earned a promotion to full-back on the first team. He is not the No. 1 full back, but Coach Ken Kennedy moved the swift lad up to bolster the position.—Omaha World Herald.
