Randolph Plans Picket Of S.S. Headquarters

CHICAGO. (ANP). The story of civil disobedience and what it is expected to accomplish was told by A. Philip Randolph last week at the fourth quadrennial session of the National Youth conference and Convention of Sunday School superintendents of the Colored Methodist Episcopal church.

"I personally will lead a picket line in front of the main headquarters of selective service Aug. 26 if the President has not issued an executive order banning segregation in the armed forces," Randolph told 1,500 delegates and friends at Du Sable high school auditorium.

The international president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters outlined his civil rights plans in which he asked for:

1. Observance of July 25 as "civil disobedience" Sunday by churches throughout the country.
2. Cooperation of both white and Negro youths in the civil disobedience program by refusing to register for the draft in a jim-crow army.
3. Requesting of President Truman to issue an executive order banning armed forces segregation.
4. Opening of a picket line in Washington to be led by Randolph, himself, if the President does not issue the requested executive order by Aug. 26, or, the calling off of the civil disobedience program if the President does issue the order.

To carry out his program Randolph has organized the League for Non-violent Civil Disobedience. Against Jimcrow armed forces. Although the audience applauded him loudly, the conference did not go on record as endorsing his activities.

J. L. Cummings of Indianapolis, in making his response to Randolph, said that he thanked him for his "powerful plan."

The National Youth conference is sponsored by the general board of religious education of the CME church. Its quadrennial session was held here in Chicago, July 13-18, at Du Sable high school and St. Paul CME church.

Randolph was one of several civic and

Sunday School Lesson

By R. E. Handy.

Subject: Jonathan—Loyal friend.

Scripture: I Samuel 18:1-4, 19:1-6.

Golden text: "A friend loveth at all times." Prov. 17:17.

Application

Friends are a rarity in this vale of tears. It is easy to find associates who will chum with you when you are healthy and have money and position to pay their way and your own around. When you can treat, wine and dine your companions you are a "hale fellow, well met." But lose your health and fortune and these same "friends" fade away one by one and soon you find yourself alone. Occasionally, out of the many, one can be found who will stick in good times and bad. That is a true friend.

Jonathan, eldest son of King Saul, became that sort of friend to David, who later became King of Israel. There is no greater type of manhood than Jonathan, in all the Bible. He saw early and clearly that God had chosen David to be King of Israel, and too, he saw the coming greatness of David.

David yielded to God, trusted wholly in God and God made him great even in his youth.

By human rights, Jonathan was to succeed Saul on the throne of Israel, but as he thought of David as coming to that position, his friendship rose above all jealousy. He loved David better than himself, so much so that the thoughts of David being crowned brought him greater joy than his own crowning would have done. What a friend!

All of us have a greater friend in Jesus. He loved us so very much that He died that we might have life. Beaten, spit upon, cursed—the sins of the world laid upon Him—that we might be free from the guilt of sin. What a friend!

Form his acquaintance today.

religious leaders addressing the young church people. Others appearing before the conference included Bishop W. Y. Bell, Bishop H. P. Porter and Bishop F. L. Lewis of the CME church and Dr. Channing H. Tobias, president of the Phelps-Stokes fund.

Lincoln Prexy Heads UNESCO London Seminar

LINCOLN U., Pa. (ANP). Word has been received here of the appointment of Dr. Horace Mann Bond, president of Lincoln university, as chairman of the committee on social understanding of the UNESCO seminar to be held in London during July and August.

The seminar will include delegates from educational institutions and teachers associations from the member nations of the United Nations. The seminar will discuss and perfect plans for the cooperation of world-wide educational agencies in meeting the problems of the world through educational methods.

Dr. Bond, before becoming president of Lincoln in 1945, had engaged in extensive educational researches and in administration and educational survey studies throughout the country. He has been a member of state educational surveys in Oklahoma, Mississippi, and Georgia. He is a member of the committee on post-war higher education of the Pennsylvania Joint Commission on government. He is the author of several books and numerous articles dealing with educational and other social problems.

Dr. Bond left New York City for London at 5:30 p. m., July 6, via the British Overseas airways.
