Hampton Professor Avers Habits of Speech of Negro Students Improving

NEW YORK. (ANP). Dr. Hugh Gloster, professor of English and chairman of the communications center at Hampton institute, stated in a recent interview that speech habits of Negro college students are showing signs of improvement. Hampton is the only Negro

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, November 14, 1948

Theme: Prophecy in the Bible. Amos 5:21-6:6; 7:10-17; Micah 4:1-5; 5:2-4; 6:6-8.

The Prophets and their Message. The prophets were men who were desperately concerned over moral, social or political conditions which prevailed in the life of which they were a part. They knew no distinctions between the secular and the sacred. For that reason they invaded the field of politics when they believed the nation was guilty of political sins. They invaded the field of economics when they believed that the kings, the rich, or the powerful were guilty of economic sinning.

It sometimes happens that modern Christians object to their pastor's preaching on public issues from the pulpit. "The Church has no business in politics," they say, and if they mean that the Church has no business aligning itself alongside a political party for the sake of electing favorite candidates, such people are quite correct. But if they mean that the Church is not to bring political policies, economic practices, and social abuses before the bar of God for judgment, then their opinion is subject to serious questions.

If the Old Testament prophets were to stand in modern pulpits and preach to modern congregations they would probably talk about the United Nations, the spread of communism, the world's starving, the political policies of the nations, and the economic greed which has produced so much of the world's woe. But they would speak of these matters always as men who were reporting God's judgments, and never as members of any political party. At least that was the kind of preaching they did in their own generation.

college in the south with a building given over entirely to the communicative arts.

Hampton has its own radio station WHOV. It is the only Negro college holding membership in the Intercollegiate Broadcasting system.

Dr. Gloster is a native of Memphis and the author of the much discussed book "Negro Voices in American Fiction." He is also the president of the Association of Teachers of Language in Negro colleges, the only organization of its kind.

Alliance News

By Beatrice Motley.

Cecil Wright returned to Omaha after an extended stay in Alliance. He stopped in Lincoln to visit Mrs. William Young and daughter of Alliance who are visiting at the home of Mrs. Young's sister, Mrs. Rosalie Whitmon.

An evening prayer meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Hayes Chandler, Jr. Thursday, October 28. She is a Sunday School teacher at St. James A. M. E. church.

Helen Rose chaperoned a Halloween party for the kiddies Saturday evening at her home. Her daughter, Sharon Marie, was hostess.

James Motley of Alliance fought his first professional fight in Denver, October 29. The fight was scheduled for five 3-minute rounds but Motley knocked out his opponent in 46 seconds of the first round.

Mrs. J. C. Hudson of Lincoln was a week end visitor in Alliance. Mr. and Mrs. Hudson had an enjoyable time participating in the fashionable sport of pheasant hunting.

Mrs. Forrest Shores and son, John, of Greeley, Colorado, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hays Chandler, Sr. Mrs. Shores is the daughter of the Chandler, Srs.

Mr. Henry Curl is visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Crosley of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills Lear and their niece, Barbara Sue Butler, have just returned from an extended motor tour in and around Canton, Mo. They also motored to Iowa, Illinois, and Kansas, spending a most enjoyable time.

Mrs. Goldie Hayes of Valentine, Neb., spent a day as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Nelson. Mrs. Hayes, a teacher, was enroute from Scottsbluff where she attended the State Teachers Convention. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson accompanied Mrs. Hayes to Valentine Sunday.

Sentence Sermons

By Rev. Frank Clarence Lowry for ANP.

There are some things of which a little goes a long way; a little poison destroys quickly and leads to decay.

A little neglect throws trains off the track and piles up many a painful and costly wreck.

Little untruths close many transactions, but later bring on much dissatisfaction.

A little match can start a fire, and a little temper stir up ire.

From a little sore springs the root of leprosy, and trying to fool God and man is the beginning of hypocrisy.

A little meanness together with hate can dissipate much of the fine work thoroughbreds struggle to create.

While on the other hand a little patience, endurance and determination will prove a fine tonic for the whole nation.

A little more of this, plus brotherly love and personal honor will build a new America and cause all other nations to wonder.

A little less greed for the daily dollar and more faith in God's wisdom and Almighty power will refresh the earth with its heavenly shower.

A little more thought about your duty in the earth, and less about finding an easy berth, will help make America what it ought to be worth.

When nations come to realize that their real worth can only be rated by their moral girth, then will come good will and peace on earth.

There is a secret to national greatness with which each citizen should be acquainted and convicted—it is—"a little that a righteous man hath is greater than the riches of many wicked."
