Our Children

By Mrs. W. B. Davis

Stuttering is making the lives of 12,000,000 men and women miserable. Their tendency to stutter when they were children was badly handled. But if this speech handicap is treated not as something a child will "grow out of" but as a symptom of maladjustment, the child often can be kept from joining that 10 percent of the population which stutters or stammers when speaking. Moreover, experts are ready to advise on how to aid in the treatment of all the other common speech troubles to which children are heir. You may be living on an isolated farm in the mountains, on a ranch, or in a town too small to support a clinic, but there is a great deal you can do to remedy your child's words. However, you must do it before his halting becomes too firmly ingrained and recognize his difficulty not as a "bad habit," but as a symptom of emotional disorder with which you or his environment may have had something to do.

Sunday School Lesson

The Problem of Life as the Rich Man Saw It.

This man had a problem. He found himself in the possession of great wealth, of a harvest so much richer than he had expected that he was not prepared to handle it. His problem was how to handle such abundance so that it would not be wasted. In his mind he had come to the great crisis of his life. And it was true that he had to think and act quickly. Success depended on wise and vigorous action now. He must face the facts. His equipment was not adequate. He must not try to patch it up, to use stop-gap methods. He would act with vigor and clear-sightedness, destroy his old storehouses, replace them with new and well-designed buildings, and have the satisfaction of seeing his wealth safely stored up. His problem was solved. The crises was over. His life work would be crowned with glorious success. He would receive the congratulations of his neighbors with a feeling that they were deserved, with a gratifying sense of final accomplishment.

Notice that his was not a slack and undisciplined life. He had not drifted into success. When opportunity had come he had ordered and regulated his life so as to make the best use of it. The labor and risk involved in a complete "scrapping" of his entire system of storehouses was not a task which could have been undertaken and carried through by a man of lazy unwillingness to exert himself or to rule his conduct by a definite plan. If discipline means the organization of life on a plan clearly conceived and carefully carried out, this man led a disciplined life.

Jesus' Idea of Human Life.

Jesus thought of him as abysmally foolish because he had thrown so much away. A man could be really wealthy, he could accumulate possessions of which time could never rob him, from which death could never separate him. He could gather riches which God himself accounted as valuable, the possession of which give the true life of the eternal kingdom. He could achieve high character, he could develop an appetite for righteousness, an appreciation of truth, a love of the highest as God reveals it. He could heap up these heavenly treasures, and when he did he had a life which was life indeed. He was rich, really rich, rich as God counts richness, successful as God knows success.

HOLLYWOOD. (ANP). Research, to most people, means long arduous hours of poring over "many a quaint and curious volume of forgotten lore." But to Ted Behr, research director for such popular CBS quiz programs as "Hit the Jackpot" and "Winner Take All," it simply means more of the reading he enjoys.

Behr made reading and research his occupation when rheumatism stiffened his hands and forced him to give up studying for a career as a concert pianist. To him, reading anything and everything from a seed catalogue to a six volume theory of philosophy has become fun. And, as he reads, which he does seven days a week, he picks up questions for his programs.

Before deciding to use a question, of course, Behr double-checks each answer. If he finds a medical question, he immediately checks it with a medical society. If he has a question, on government, he clears it, if necessary, with Washington. He allows little margin for error.

Behr's extensive reading has turned him into a veritable human encyclopedia. He can tell you the number of sections in an elephant's trunk (400), or the number of times the Cleveland Indians have won the pennant (twice).

Behr thinks his best bit of research was done when he decided to figure out how many snowflakes fell on New York City during 1947's "big snow." After considerable effort with a slide rule and assorted laws of calculus, he arrived at an answer—616 sextillion, or 616 followed by 21 zeros.

While Eddie (Rochester) Anderson gets most of his exercise using his vocal chords with Jack Benny, his son, Billy Anderson, is busy cutting records for his athletic prowess. Billy is an all-around track star at Compton Junior college and has already set two new Compton records. Billy, a 6-foot-2 inch, gets over 70-yard hurdles at an 8.4 second clip, just 1/10 of a second of the world's record held by Harrison Dillard and that's not all, he can pole vault, throw a better-than-average-javelin and is a right half-back on the football field besides being expert at hurdles, dash and broad jump. Billy is being watched carefully by local track coaches as a good bet for the gruelling 10-event decathlon grind.

All this of course, swells the pride of papa Rochester. He says Billy has no ambition to become an entertainer like his dad, but he eats, sleeps and drinks sports. Right now the 20 year-old boy towers 8 inches over his dad and everybody in southern California is betting that Billy will make a name for himself in the athletic world.

"One Man's Family" begins its 18th year of NBC broadcasting in May. Abe Burrows signed a seven-year contract with CBS covering and television services as writer, producer, director and performer... Columbia records will release "You Are There" albums on "Battle of Gettysburg" and the "Signing of the Magna Charta," two outstanding broadcasts of the "You Are There" radio series. The program's format has the unusual approach of presenting the world's great events through the eye-witness method of radio today, and has made history live and breathe with moving accounts. The Columbia albums will be permanent records of these two great events.
