NU Students Hear Famous Fisk Educator Cite Positive Ways In Which Social Problems Are Met

"Numbers of young people, on their own, are engaging the social problems of our time and new values are emerging that in time, may be the antidote of our age."

Approximately 2,000 students, faculty and friends were on hand at the Coliseum April 26 to honor some 1,800 University of Nebraska students for their outstanding scholarship and to hear Dr. Charles S. Johnson. Introduced as a "distinguished American educator" by Chancellor R. G. Gustavson. Dr. Johnson spoke from the subject "Fear is a Negative Motivation." He told that young people today do not fear war, depression or new ideas, and that one of the most promising symptoms was the positive approach being made to world problems. Citing five values which are "not inspired by fear, the president of Fisk University listed:

1. Their invasion of the not-yet-socially-acceptable worlds of labor, politics, social service, interracial and intercultural education and living. There is a sense of social responsibility and participation that is being demanded as part of the educational process.
2. There is the swift contagion of the doctrine of human rights. Only ten years ago the idea of human rights was largely a concept of philosophy. Today it is a principle of action. Taking an aside at the opposition of the anti-civil rights bloc, he said, "This is indeed a new climate, a new challenge to youth, a new day, despite the insolent rebellion of a provincial section of our own country, against the tide of history."

3. New definitions for such terms as democracy. "Many American youths who fought for democracy," he said, "had little real conception of its meaning. They did not see the incongruity of such a crusade to save or carry democracy to the world in racially segregated units."

4. An almost unhealthy respect for science. Our emotions, our values, ideals and decisions, in their living context of actual experience, lie beyond the reach of scientific methods.

5. The imperative pursuit of peace.

Concluding, he stated that "in our world the possibilities of good are as limitless as the possibilities of evil. There need be no fear and no frustration if you only use the skills and knowledge already within your reach, for fear itself is a negative motivation."

Following outstanding scholars received awards given for scholarship. Among those listed were Granville Coggs, Charlene Colbert and Jeanne Malone.

Artists Decline Talks At Univ. Of Ala. Festival

BIRMINGHAM, (ANP). Don't think for a minute that all artists live in abstract worlds, far removed from real issues. Two artists have declined invitations to the University of Alabama art festival because of segregation.

According to the Birmingham News, Dr. Francis Taylor, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, and Dr. Thomas Munro, director of the Cleveland Art museum, have cancelled speeches at the university.

The internationally prominent authorities on art will not address the festival, scheduled for April 22 and 23, because the university has accepted the works of Negro artists but denies them the opportunity of participating in the exposition.

The Lincoln Urban League, as of May 1, announces their Annual Membership Roundup under the direction of Mrs. Florence Gibbons. Your membership in this agency is of far greater value as evidence of local interest and co-operation than for financial support. Is the Urban League serving the community? Has it served in the promotion of a better social, economic or education status for the Negroes of our community? Let the record speak.

In posing the above questions, Mr. Clyde W. Malone, executive secretary of the Lincoln Urban League, offered the following information.

"The free Employment placement of jobs stands at 144 for 1948. Estimating the average earnings at only $20.00 per week the total of $158,400 was earned by these workers in one year. This does not record the morale and spiritual gains of the recipients.

"New job opportunities were found for 4 persons that may provide openings for other Negro workers.

"67 documents were notarized, without charges, that involved pension application, job references, real estate purchases and reports.

"23 youth and adult organizations and clubs with a total enrollment of 523 were provided with recreation and social opportunities. Average weekly attendance by all groups was 1500, including 21 organizations not under the Urban League supervision.

"5114 letters, programs and bulletins were mimeographed without charge other than material used.

"Vocational guidance given to 26 youth, free movies were shown to 15,000 persons and housing was secured for 196 individuals.

Many tasks such as letters of reference written, counseling in individual problems, record keeping, attending meetings in the interest of better race relation and community service, were not listed statistically.

"These and many other services we have and shall continue to render. On the basis of this record we are asking your membership, signifying your co-operation and good-will."

No Easy Chairs For Me

By William Henry Huff
I seldom sit in easy chairs
For fear they'll make me lazy,
I let the others sit in theirs
Ev'n though they call me crazy,
I had no such in early years;
I sat on puncheon benches,
Sometimes 'mid blood and briny tears
As boys had in the trenches.
