Letters To The Editors

Anonymous letters will not be published, however, writers may use a pen name if they desire provided that full name and address is included for our information. Brevity is preferred and the editor reserves the right to edit letters for length.

Dear Editor: One of the objectives of the Lincoln Urban league from the date of its organization has been the improvement of the economic status of Negroes by employer contacts accepting employe and employer applications, making referrals and vocational guidance. This service, like all efforts of the Urban league, is given without any fee or charge. This policy has been and always will be followed by the executive secretary and all other members of the staff.

DALE WEEKS,
President
CLYDE W. MALONE,
Executive Secretary,

Sunday School Lesson

THEME—The Clash With Religious Authority. Mark 11:27—12:44.

From Popularity to Condemnation. On Palm Sunday Jesus was the most popular Person in Jerusalem. Men would follow him and die for him, if he would but give the word. The tide of popularity ebbs, however, as quickly as it flows, and in four days the same people who were crying "Hosanna" are shouting "Crucify him, crucify him," and as we read, "their voices prevailed."

No one can live long without observing many instances of this tragedy of popularity, the hero of one year forgotten the next, the applause fading into indifference, the popular judgment swayed by the changing wind of gossip or scandal or self-interest. Popularity ebbs and flows like the tide.

How, then, does Jesus meet the shifting breezes of popularity? He seems to be absolutely unconcerned about them. He does not know or care how the wind blows. On Palm Sunday, while the shouts of the people are about him, he stands as if alone on the Mount of Olives and, looking over the valley to Jerusalem, weeps for the sorrows of the city; and on the following Thursday, when the people are crying "Crucify him," again he does not seem to hear them, but goes his way, undisturbed as he was before, unflattered, peaceful in blame as in praise, and standing before Pilate as a criminal, says to him, "I am a king." That is the first teaching of Jesus as he approaches this last week of his life.

We live in a time of extraordinary publicity. Gossip, scandal, praise, and blame beset every life, and many people are tempted to watch for applause or for censure as tho they were tests of success. Even in our sports we talk of supporting players by organized noise, as tho one could not even play a game at his best without dependence on applause. Yet in our time, as always, there is but one kind of man, who in the end wins a worthy victory. It is the man who depends neither on praise nor blame. He leads his life instead of following it. There is but one commendation which he desires—that of his own conscience—Francis Greenwood Peabody, in Mornings in the College Chapel.

What a Little Kindergartener Knew. A visitor sat watching the children in a kindergarten in New York when a little 4 year old, evidently thinking the visitor had nothing to do, slipped out of her chair, went to a shelf where there were some Bibles, and taking one carried it to the visitor saying, "This is our Father's letter, and in it he says, 'Little children, love one another.'"

Xavier And Dilliard Universities Appear On CBS

NEW YORK.—Two New Orleans schools were featured in CBS' "Church of the Air." Rev. Edward F. Murphy, dean of philosophy and religion at Xavier university, explained "The Art of Easter" on the program. Background music was furnished by Xavier university concert choir under the direction of Norman Bell.

Helen Kenyon, Dilliard university trustee, and moderator of the General Council of the Congregational churches, urged universal church unity to meet world crises in a talk "Freedom and Fellowship" on the second part of the broadcast. Miss Kenyon is widely known for her work with inter-racial goodwill. Prof. Orin Sutherland of Dilliard's music department conducted the Dilliard choir.

Prepare For The U.L. Beautification And Yard Clean Up

The prospective yard clean up or beautification prize winners have just a few days to get that trash cleaned out, the shrubbery trimmed, the lawn mowed and the back fence repaired. Why? You guessed it! The inspection committee of the Lincoln Urban League will get started their annual visit to every Negro home in Lincoln Monday, May 9. As usual 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizes will be awarded to winners in the clean up division, and 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizes to those yards judged as showing the greatest improvement in beautification. In addition 3 honorable mentions will be awarded in each division.

Marian Anderson Features Jewish Song For First Time In Carnegie

NEW YORK.—Marian Anderson, the gifted contralto, in her farewell recital prior to an extended European engagement sang "Eli, Eli," a popular Jewish song, for the first time at her Carnegie hall recital Sunday, April 24. Her program also included "All is Fulfilled" from Bach's "St. John Passion" and works by Beethoven, Schumann and Liszt.

The International singers, an interracial group conducted by Clifford Kemp, are scheduled to give their recital Wednesday evening, April 27, at Town hall. They will feature five contemporary songs from the pens of the noted composers; Virgil Thomson, Norman dello Joio, Josef Alexander and Aaron Copeland.

In addition to yard inspection the committee will get population and housing information. This housing survey is quite important because it will give a factual picture of the housing needs of the Negro population and will be helpful in a proposed effort to provide better housing opportunities.

The inspection committee is Mrs. Anna Newton, Chairman, Mrs. J. H. Dean, Mr. Fred Nevels, Mr. Wyatt Williams and Rev. Melvin L. Shakespeare.
