Teen Age Chatter

Greetings Gates: This week means that there are only a few more weeks of school for you Stoo-dunce.

I hear Doris Powell has a crush on a certain boy. What about that Doris. I wonder what Marilyn has to say about that?

The following paragraph describes two of Lincoln's lovely teen age girls and they have informed me that they are not interested in any of the young teens of the opposite sex.

They are two of the most modest, cool-playing, real-gone, extraordinary, decent, delicate, creations; none other than Jeanette Venegar and Birdie Powell. In other words boys just aren't interested in you. (I wonder are they human!!!)

A cute foursome that I heard about over the week end was that of Emma White and Elbert Starks and Marilyn Bowen and Donald Dorsey. Real-Cool Hey!

The Klique Klub met at the home of Jeanne Malone Sunday afternoon. We made plans for the simply crazy carnival we will have June 3, so all you teens and adults must come there will be fun, fun, and more fun for young and old. We also made plans for our second annual Formal Lawn party we plan to have about the 20th of June.

Barbara Johnson was here Sunday visiting Marilyn Bowen.

The Capitol City Home Show was a great event several of our teens appeared to see the things of tomorrow, among them were Jeanette Venegar, Birdie Powell, Doris Powell.

In the fashion parade this week Phyllis Holcomb was wearing a cute hat that was very becoming to her. Others, dressed sharp Sunday were Jeanne Malone who was wearing a grey suit, Betty Wilson who was wearing a fine beige two-piece dress and Betty Bowman who was wearing a nice two-toned brown suit.

So long for now teens but don't forget the Klique Klub for All Carnival.

By now, Dotty.

Six pretty chorines are featured in the Harlem "Club Dixieland" sequence in Frank Sinatra's "On the Town" at MGM. They are Mildred Boyd, Anise Boyer, Doris Akes, Vivian Dandridge, Marie Bryant, and Artie Young Reed. Members of the case of "Intruders in the Dust," both colored and white, were treated very well in Oxford, Miss., where most of the picture was filmed, publicity man Barret Kiesling reported.

He said the little town of 4,500 wants to present the world premiere of the picture. The publisher of the book, "Intruder in the Dust," has sent 1,500 copies of the book to the town. This is a story of a lynching in Mississippi town.

to Negro people by customs of the Real Estate board. Poor houses are the only ones offered for living quarters and because of low wages they often cannot be repaired.

Only one bank in the city will loan money to help Negroes improve their property: Negroes with good jobs have well-kept homes, she reported.

Negroes find it almost impossible to eat in a public place in Des Moines, Mrs. Weertz said. "Negroes are given no service—merely ignored."

On the good side, Mrs. Weertz said there is no discrimination in the public schools or in Drake university. Business and commercial schools, except one giving courses two nights a week, are closed to Negroes.

Two local hospitals admit Negroes for medical or nurse training, she said. All hospitals are open to Negro patients and Negro doctors.

In religion there is no prejudice. Some places of recreation bar Negroes, but such places as the theaters, Salvation Army and Scout camps, the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. do not discriminate.

There is little or no discrimination in state welfare and secretarial work, the post office, the city library, the water works and the police department.
