U. S. Cafeteria Ends Jim Crow

WASHINGTON. — Racial discrimination in the nation's capitol received a new blow last week when segregation was ended on Monday, July 25, in the cafeteria of the Government Printing Office, as a result of efforts by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Congressman Adam C. Powell, jr., and local newspaper reporters.

Spearheading the fight within the agency was Reverend Percy Jernagin, a veteran employee of the GPO. Colored employees of the GPO boycotted the restaurant following the exclusion of persons from the outside public.

To Reopen Pool In Washington; No Segregation

WASHINGTON, D. C.—J. A. Krug, secretary of the interior, announced this week that the Anacostia Park Pool, recent scene of interracial disturbances, "will be reopened as soon as possible and the department of the interior will make every possible effort to insure that the majority of citizens anxious to make use of our public recreation facilities may do so without either mob interference or surrender to vicious prejudice."

This announcement was continued in a letter to Clarence M. Mitchell, national labor secretary, NAACP, who had urged Secretary Krug to hold firm in his previously publicized policy of non-segregation. Mr. Krug reaffirmed "that non-segregation remains the firm policy of the National Park Service and the interior department: that there will be no backward steps of any sort; and that there will be constant forward steps."

As to assignments of park land, Secretary Krug declared that none will be offered to the District of Columbia Recreation board "without complete assurance and a clear stipulation that all areas now operating on a non-segregated basis would remain non-segregated."

The operation of recreational facilities in the National Capital Parks system in the District of Columbia are based on two cardinal principles, it was pointed out by Secretary Krug. First, that recreational facilities which are primarily used for local and neighborhood recreation should be administered by the local recreation agency in accordance with the Recreation Act of April 29, 1942.

Second, that all possible progress, with no backward step of any sort, should be made in effectuating the President's Civil Rights program not only on park lands administered by this department, but also in all public recreation facilities throughout the city of Washington.

Emergency Service Available To Insure Doctor at All Hours

"I must have a doctor!" That familiar call for medical aid will bring prompt assistance, under the emergency telephone system now being used by the Lancaster County Medical society.

Designed chiefly for transients or others who have no regular physician, the system is for emergency use only.

If a family cannot locate a physician in a crisis the service will provide them with one. The plan operates in this fashion:

If all other attempts fail, a telephone call is placed with the society at 2-5453.

The society keeps available for urgent calls four physicians. They are local general practitioners who have agreed to participate in the plan.

First Time in 103 Years: A.M.A. Will Seat Negro Physician Will Be Seated With Delegates at Next Convention

DETROIT.—For the first time since its founding, 103 years ago, the American Medical Association will seat a Negro physician in the House of Delegates.

The physician, Dr. Peter M. Murray, New York City, will take his seat in the House of Delegates for the first time at the annual meeting of the American Medical Association in San Francisco in June, 1950. This was made possible as a result of Dr. Murray's election to the house by the New York State Medical Society.

The A.M.A. House of Delegates is the policy-making body of the American Medical Association and is composed of approximately 190 physicians from the United States and its territories.

Dr. Murray's election to the house was made public by Dr. George F. Lull, Chicago, secretary and general manager of the American Medical Association, who, this week, addressed the convention of the National Medical Association, composed of Negro physicians, dentists, and druggists.

"Dr. Murray's election to our House of Delegates is a forward step in American medicine," Dr. Lull said in making his announcement.

"This action will serve notice to the socializers who are attempting to besmirch American medicine for purposes of political gain that medicine recognizes no boundaries except the scientific skill and abilities of those who are admitted to its practice. Dr. Murray is a magnificent example of what a physician can achieve under our present system of free enterprise, despite its admitted imperfections and injustices. Progress is still in the making, but this is a significant milestone."

Dr. Murray is 61 years old and a native of New Orleans. He was graduated from the Howard University School of Medicine in 1914. From 1918 until 1920 he was assistant surgeon-chief at Freedmen's Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Murray is presently director of the department of gynecology at Harlem Hospital, New York, and associate director of obstetrics and gynecology at Sydenham Hospital, New York.

He is also a trustee of Howard University, member of the Committee Minora (executive committee of the Medical Society of the County of New York), president of the National Medical Association from 1930 to 1931, fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine, diplomat of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology, fellow of the American College of Surgeons, and fellow of the International College of Surgeons.

ANNOUNCES DRIVE

The grand president of Delta Sigma Theta, national interracial women's sorority, Miss Dorothy I. Height, announced last week a nationwide fundraising drive through the Procter & Gamble company's novel "profit-sharing Joint Collection Plan."—(ANP).

Once the physician has been sent, the relationship between him and the caller becomes similar to all other doctor-patient relationships. The physician bills his patient and payment is made directly to the physician. Dr. John A. Brown, secretary of the Lancaster county society, said the Lincoln service was developed thru the efforts of the board of trustees of the society and other Lincoln physicians. "There are probably few cases in a town like Lincoln when such service should be necessary," Dr. Brown said.

He might have added, however, that it is comforting to know that it is available. —Courtesy Lincoln Journal, Aug. 13.
