By Dorothy H. Greene
Mrs. Obbie Brown is enjoying a bit of relaxation at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Simms, after a period of employment in the script department of CBS in New York City, one of the major networks of the country. Mrs. Brown was one of 14 white collar workers in the station. The positions were made possible two years ago through the intervention of the Radio Guild. In February, Mrs. Brown will join her husband who heads the chemistry department at Wiley College, Marshall, Tex. Mr. Brown, twice graduated from the University of Nebraska, has completed and placed on sale copies of a book, entitled, "Calculations in General Chemistry."

Ball Stars Make Dough; Is Branch Rickey Peeved?

By Alvin Moses.

NEW YORK. (ANP). Some $92,000 in off-season profits was sliced into by colored diamond stars Larry Doby, Roy Campanella, Jackie Robinson and "Stormy Petrel" Don Newcombe. All of which meant a bit more to the "deep-freeze-bank" brother Newcombe has out Rahway, N. Y. way. This of course compares in no way whatsoever with the reported $250,000 (extra-curricular) baseball earnings of Robinson the year he added 20 odd pounds to his swift frame or his 1949 movie-television, etc. earnings. As an astute business executive, one of the cleverest in existence Branch Rickey needs no one to acquaint him with these factors any more

Teen Age Chatter

BY ELOISE FINLEY

Hi Teens:
 This week I thought I would give you a few rules for the girls, later I will help you boys too.

(a) Never dine alone with a married man, unless his wife is your great friend.

(b) Never accept an invitation through a man to the house of someone else.

(c) If you have met a man and his wife together, and the man asks you to a party at his house, do not accept; his wife should invite you. If she is away, of course, there is no discourtesy implied, and if he invites you to a party, you may accept.

(d) Never encourage stories that are indecent.

(e) Never allow a man to come into your apartment if you are alone in it, or to stay on when other guests have left.

(f) Never go alone with a man to his apartment, or stay on in his apartment when other guests have gone.

(g) Never go alone with a man to his hotel room, even if he has a sitting room.

(h) Never accept a valuable present from a beau or possible beau—a very old rule and very sound.

If she follows the above rules, no young girl could conceivably be considered fast or cheap. She could never be misunderstood. If she refuses an invitation, a drink or a present in a prim and righteous way, she may be considered stuffy. If she refuses all these gracefully, with a smile, she will be thought charming and well brought up, by the world at large and, by young men, eminently wifely material.

than Cleveland's Hank Greenberg does. When the mahatma of the Gowanus Canal directed Newcombe to quit his "easy money" wrestling referee assignments a fortnight ago, wise men said that added up to Rickey-mad?

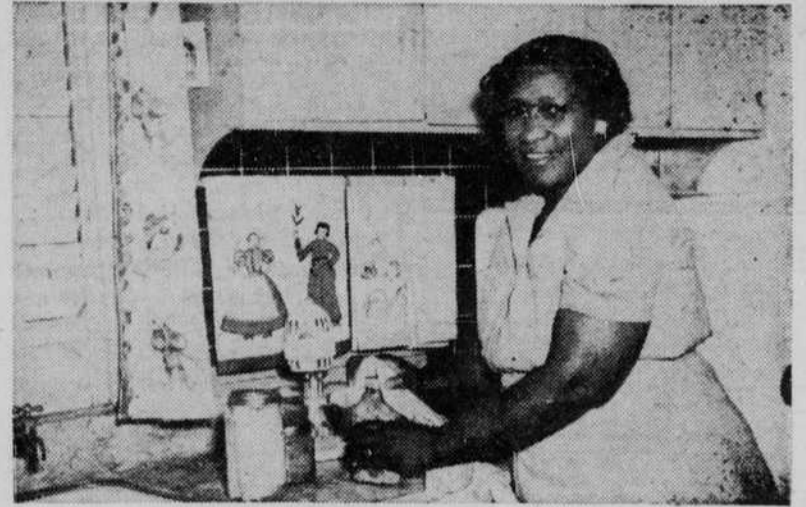

Then when Washington, D. C., newsman glibly wrote that Newcombe's 1950 salary demands would be a trifle in excess of Jackie Robinson's $20,000 (1949) drawn down for six months work that was really something to wire home about.

Get as much as you can while you are young and at your best Don, for it would be real dumb not to think in such business terms. While accomplishing all this bear in mind whom you work for at present. Mr. Rickey is a stockholders' front-office-man-first and always. This will not prevent his being eminently fair (we hope, we hope) but even Samson (not Victor Mature) couldn't make the ex-St. Louis Sunday school superintendent move an inch above what he thought a player was worth even if the full weight of every class "A" baseball writer in the nation were in your corner.
