

"How Can America Best Strengthen Democracy in the World?" is Theme

Dr. K. O. Broady and Dr. Frank Sorenson of the faculty of the University of Nebraska, and Co-Chairmen of the Second Annual Lincoln "Conference on World Affairs" to be held December 1, 2 and 3 in the Auditorium of the Love Library on the University of Nebraska campus, have announced four outstanding speakers for the conference sessions. William R. Mathews, Editor and Publisher of the Arizona Daily Star, Tucson, Ariz.; Harlan Miller, Des Moines columnist; Kenneth Boulding, Professor of Economics, University of Michigan and Walter Schwinn, Washington, D. C. Attending with Mr. Miller from Des Moines will be Rev. Charles W. Phillips, present Unitarian minister.

Mathews, special advisor to the Secretary of Defense in 1948, author of "Indonesia Report" and an accredited correspondent with the Dulles Commission in Korea, wants to bring to his Lincoln audience something more than a mere recital of the usual platitudes, he said. "Democracy cannot be thrust upon a nation, it must be earned through a long process of growth. Our own democracy is the fruit of many centuries of struggle and thought," he reminded.

Harlan Miller, columnist for the Des Moines Register, since 1940 with the Washington Post and Publishers Syndicate, and former member of the Hoover Commission, is especially interested in a very limited form of World Government using the United Nations as the foundation.

Kenneth Boulding, English born, graduate of Oxford with honors, is a Quaker. He received the award as outstanding young economist in the United States last year. Author, professor, lecturer, this young man deserves a tremendous audience on his Lincoln visit.

Walter Schwinn, Department of State, Washington, D. C., works with the Voice of America in interpreting American policy.

The theme and subject of their talks is "How Can America Best Strengthen Democracy in the World?"

The three day conference is open to the public. No registration is required and there is no fee. It is hoped that Lincoln citizens and those in surrounding communities will plan to attend one or all of these outstanding sessions. They will begin Friday evening, Dec. 1, at 8 p.m. On Saturday afternoon, Dec. 2, at 2 o'clock, there will be a panel. An outstanding meeting will be held Saturday evening, Dec. 2, at 8 o'clock and again Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There will be debates and question periods with local moderators and presiding officers.

Sponsoring the conference is a group of 24 Lincoln religious, educational and social service groups in cooperation with the American Friends Service Committee. Secretary of the Conference is Mrs. A. K. Donovan. This public spirited project is designed to do much to strengthen and promote the merits of democracy. The public is urged to attend.

The National Urban League Monday urged all Negro workers to apply for employment with industries holding government defense contracts. The League asked further, that workers report to local Urban Leagues the results of their applications for employment. This call from NUL industrial relations secretary, Julius A. Thomas, comes at a time when demand is at a peak and the supply of skilled labor is at its lowest ebb since 1948. The League is the nation's oldest interracial social service agency.

Will Investigate Biased Practices

Estimates show two million workers now available to meet an unprecedented need for labor which is scheduled to require four million men by early 1951. A report from Under Secretary of Labor, Michael J. Galvin, to NUL executive director, Lester B. Granger, mentioned that National Security Resources Board and Department of Labor officials are conferring on recommendations recently submitted by the League. During August and September Urban League executives, Granger and Thomas, met in conferences with Maurice J. Tobin, Secretary of Labor, and W. Stuart Symington, chairman, National Security Resources Board. The League at that time submitted recommendations and memoranda concerning the national emergency.

Law Students May Attend Wm. and Mary

By Carter Jewel
WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (ANP)

The College of William and Mary, the second oldest institution of higher learning in America, is ready to admit qualified Negro law students. This policy was disclosed Monday afternoon, Nov. 13, by Dr. Dudley W. Woodbridge, dean of the institution's School of Jurisprudence, in an address before the Norfolk and Portsmouth Bar Association.

Dean Woodbridge said the college's decision was published in the current edition of the Alumni Gazette.

He disclosed that the college would follow this procedure in handling a Negro's application:

If the college found that the applicant was qualified for admission under existing regulations of the school, the application would be forwarded to the attorney general of Virginia for his legal opinion. If he should rule that the college is obligated under the law to accept the student, the college would do so without a court contest.

Dean Woodbridge, who spoke in Norfolk on problems of education, listed segregation as one of the current problems in legal education. He said the trend now is toward the elimination of jim crow in law schools. He also called attention to the fact that the Yale University school of law has proposed that any law school practicing segregation should be barred from membership in the American Law School association.

The Nebraska Council on Children and Youth announced Wednesday the names of 38 Nebraska delegates selected to attend the Mid-Century White House Conference on Children and Youth in Washington, D. C., Dec. 3-7.

The delegates were chosen by the council's executive committee on the basis of their interest, knowledge and ability to participate in the meetings, Mrs. E. W. Orme, council chairman, said.

"FIVE OUTSTANDING young people are included in the Nebraska delegation," Mrs. Orme said, "in keeping with the major role youth has taken in all our council's activities."

"We are looking forward not only to making significant contribution to the national conference, but what is more important, bring back with us valuable insights in how the opportunities for children and youth in Nebraska communities may be improved," she said.

Youth conferences have been called at the White House by Presidents every ten years since 1909. The theme of this conference is "the mental, emotional, and spiritual qualities essential to individual happiness and to responsible citizenship, and what physical, economic and social conditions are deemed necessary to this development."
