Sunday School Lesson

The Southern Kingdom
Scripture—11 Kings 18: 1-7; Isaiah 31: 1-3
PRESENT DAY APPLICATION
By Frederick D. Jordan
Los Angeles, Calif.
Peace and security can be established in no other way than by spiritual strength. Our lesson shows clearly the futility of trying to establish a kingdom on any other basis. Peace is even worse than the tragedy of war, as our nation today must learn, as well as the other nations of the world, when it involves moral compromise. Splendid as are all organizations which aim to produce international security, every sensible person knows that we will never have a safe world until we have righteous people living therein; and that we will never have righteousness until God is given first place in our lives.
Not the atomic bomb, but God Himself is our security. The leaders in our lesson were cowards and compromisers until Hezekiah came along. He did not vacillate, but was willing to take a moral stand and he also believed in forceful action. He was not a fanatic, but he hated evil and supported righteousness.
That is the type of leadership we need today. The Church and nation cooperating will insure the moral health and prosperity, and the security of our nation.

here after a recent 10-minute taste of death. The tot is Van Pell Evans, jr., son of Van Pell Evans, executive secretary of the Waco Negro Chamber of Commerce.
Young Van Pell, who is only about six weeks old now, got sick one night a couple of weeks ago, and his parent called a doctor desperately. When the pediatrician arrived, they figured it was too late because their baby had "died" ten minutes before.
The doctor, whose name has not been published, decided that it was not too late. He began to apply artificial respiration.
