Rights Must Be Extended To All

That same principle applies in the field of civil rights. I rejoice, I know you do, in the longdelayed recognition of the superb talents of outstanding diplomats, professional people, artists and scientists in the Negro community.

"The growing acceptance of their splendid talents and the recognition of their tremendous contributions to American society has enriched the lives of all of us. It is equally important, however, that the rights and privileges full American democrats. citizenship be extended not just to a few outstanding leaders but to all the Negro people of Amer-
