ENLARGING THE CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

1:48; Romans 15:14-29.
 Scripture—Isaiah 60:1-3; Acts Memory Selection—I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth. Romans 1:16.

Present Day Application By Frederick D. Jordan Los Angeles, Calif

The followers of Jesus have always acted upon the assumption that they had the right to carry the gospel message to all peoples. They have deemed it an obligation. It is a strange fact that the Christian religious must be shared in order to keep it alive. Sharing is an expression of Christian living. When sharing ceases, the Christian spirit dies. An artist was once asked to paint a picture of a dead church. He sketched the entrance to a beautiful edifice, in the vestibule clearly obvious was a box labeled Missions. Across the opening he had traced the web of a spider. Ours is a responsibility to help build a world-wide Christian fellowship. The missionary endeavors of our own denomination have carried to the dominion of Canada and South America; to South and West Africa and to the Isles of the sea. Every loyal church is a supply for the churches that must be built for the missionaries trained and sent, for schools of Christian education, for hospitals, and clinics for a healing ministry. Is your church doing its part or is it dead?

Library Opened at College
 INSTITUTE, W. Va.—(ANP)—The new library has been opened, and 17 new teachers have been added to the faculty of West Virginia state college for the 1951-52 school year, it was announced last week.

Robert Clark, of the Department of Political Science, has returned from a year's study at the University of Illinois. Alston O. Donovan, who substituted in Political Science, has been transferred to the Teacher Training High School.

Miss Peare New Editorial Assistant

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Catherine Owens Peare has been appointed editorial assistant in the Department of Promotion and Publicity of the National Urban League, it was announced recently by Lloyd K. Garrison, League president. The League is the nation's oldest and only interracial voluntary service agency working for equal economic opportunity.

Miss Peare is a magazine writer and author of several biographies for young adults including: "Albert Einstein," Holt, 1949; "Mahatma Gandhi," Holt, 1950; and "Mary McLeod Bethune," Vanguard, 1951.

Miss Peare will handle some of the publicity of the agency and be concerned especially with magazine, radio and television.

Prior to her Urban League appointment, Miss Peare was employed in the investment department of The Duke Endowment with offices in New York.

Miss Peare is a member of the Television Writers Group of the Authors' League of America, Inc., Women's National Book Association and Brooklyn Interfaith Fellowship. She is a graduate of the New Jersey State Teachers College, and has done graduate work at New York University Graduate School of Business.

AME Editor Dies

Dr. J. S. Brookens, 61, of Mobile, Ala., editor of the AME Church Review, was found dead in his drawing room in a Frisco train Pullman car Saturday morning, Sept. 15th as the train neared Kansas City.

The prominent AME minister and general officer was on his way to Kansas City from where he was scheduled to go to Topeka, Kansas.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 18 at the Ebenezer AME church in Kansas City following which the body was sent to Thomasville, Ga. A second funeral to be held in Cairo, Ga.

Bishop D. Ormonde Walker, presiding bishop of the fifth Episcopal district, had charge of the Kansas City services.

Survivors included his widow, Mrs. Florence Olivia Brookens and seven children.

Friendly Neighbor

The following is the beginning of a series on Mexico written by Joseph Alexis, Lincoln, Nebraska.

BY JOSEPH ALEXIS

To all who have been in Mexico on different occasions during the last thirty years, outward appearances have greatly changed. Modern buildings of pleasing design have been erected in all the cities, and excellent school houses have taken the place of the dilapidated buildings of a generation ago.

The people of the United States should know more of the friendly neighbor to the south, and our geographical knowledge should not be bounded by the Rio Grande and an imaginary line running to the west of El Paso.

175 miles south of Nogales, Arizona, has risen the capital of the great state of Sonora, Hermosillo, meaning "the little beauty." Within the last ten years the University of Sonora has come into being, housed in well constructed and practical buildings. The museum and the library share an edifice of palatial proportions. While the institution is called a university, it is in reality a teachers college, the purpose of which is to train efficient teachers for the schools of the state.

Thirty years ago it was not uncommon to find in Mexico within walking distance of the border of U.S.A. schools that had as sole openings the door and the space where windows were supposed to be which was covered only by shutters to be closed when the rain blew in or the weather was cold. Needless to say, it was impossible to read in the resulting darkness. The children were often taught to commit lessons to memory by reciting in chorus, and the sounds of the youthful voices penetrated the community.

We congratulate Mexico on the marked advance made in the direction of educating the nation. With progress in teaching follows a higher standard of living, which is made possible by the great wealth of the country. There is still much poverty in Mexican families, but conditions are improving.

Owing in part to disturbed conditions in Europe, thousands of Americans have turned their tourist eyes toward Mexico, and one of the flourishing industries of the country is the tourist trade.

One decided advantage to the American tourist is the fact that he needs no steamer service to arrive in Mexico. He simply drives his car to the Mexican border, where he finds excellent paved highways awaiting him. The highway from Laredo, Texas, to Mexico City is the one best known. Few are aware of the fact that a fine paved highway now connects Arizona with Hermosillo, Guaymas, and Ouidad Obregon. In another year or two the highway will be ready all the way to Mazatlan, where these lines are written. In dry weather you can even now drive your car to this beauty spot on the Pacific.

Every American that goes abroad should feel that he is a good will ambassador from the United States. We probably all understand that our country must be strong to meet possible dangers, but we sometimes forget that one duty that every citizen owes his country is to win friends for America. This can be done by showing appreciation of the accomplishments of our neighbors and by making them feel that we do not look down upon him but consider him our equal. If we have a culture to be proud of, they have one too. Let us not build our hopes for the future on physical strength only or on destructive bombs. When you talk with persons of other nationalities, you find that they have the same desires as you, namely to live peaceably with their fellowmen.
