This Week's Poem
Almighty God,
Give me strength to live this day,
to all its worth hold fast
To make the most of all it yields, as tho it was my last Give me understanding that I'll
not be unjust,
Inspire me with wisdom to hold thy truth in trust.

Present Day Application
By Frederick D. Jordan
Los Angeles, Calif.

God's work must be done. His workmen come, do their share, accomplish what they can, then pass on. Leadership is ever like that. Each has his own particular contribution to make, then as one poet beautifully expressed it, "The torch was not lighted by us, other hands lit it and passed it on to us. It is ours to hold high while in our possession, to keep it shining bright, then to pass it on to another." Note that when Moses passed the reigns of leadership on to Joshua, he expressed great confidence in Joshua's ability. Joshua took over the leadership of his people with no disparaging of Moses, nor did he permit the people to exclaim "we've had no real leader until now." Can you think of any instance like this? Moses challenged Joshua and people alike as he left them, to a new consecration and loyalty to God. We stand on a threshold of new adventure, of new achievement when God gives to us a new leader. He calls us to greater work. He gives us new courage for new endeavor. We build upon our past achievements, not disparaging or tearing them down to build afresh. God give our church leaders like Moses who will "pass the torch on" to new leaders like Joshua.

Grant me clearer vision of worth and human need.

Protect me from myself, my weakness, my greed.
Fill me with brother's love to make a man a friend,
Toward money, pride, and vanity, let not my weak will bend.
Grant me responsibility to thereby aid my brothers.
Let rich content be my reward, when I have helped another.
And when this day is yesterday leave pleasant memory,
And someone else happier, through the chance you granted me.

Along The Party Line

By Kathryn M. Lytle
5123 Maple Ave.
St. Louis 13, Missouri

Last night in St. Louis was one of those times when we were on one side of the cold front and a few miles away Kirksville was on the other side of it. We were masking in 61 degree temperature while they had 28 degrees. Oh yes, it caught up with us here this morning, but it was nice while it lasted.

We drove out yesterday to see how the new house was coming along. It is amazing how slowly things go when someone else is doing them and how fast TIME goes when you are doing them. But they still say the first of the year and that's good enough for us. Almost every time we are out we go over and look at the display house to see if we missed anything or to measure the windows for curtains or something, but mostly just to look.

Mother Lytle is coming down for one meal each day now and so she was able to eat Thanksgiving dinner with us, one more thing for which to be thankful, among the many. Mabel will be home again tomorrow and will have many things to tell of the doings of the three grandchildren.

Alvy Hadden has been in St. Louis for surgery and was able to be out and have dinner with us yesterday. He is a former Lincoln boy and is now doing nicely in the upholstery business in Grand Island. He and Joe talked of old times and old friends. Strange how you can suddenly realize that those dear to you have had a life in which you are a stranger. Some of the names wear familiar but others I had not heard before. It was a pleasant time for all of us however and we're happy that Alvy is recovering satisfactorily.

I am busy now getting my Christmas lists ready. I always like to at least write a line in most of the cards and so it will be important that I start early this year. When you stay in the old home town you take your friends pretty much for granted but when you move to a new

Auditioned for CBS Television

The CBS Television Network is known in the acting world for giving ambitious thespians an honest opportunity to demonstrate their abilities. Then, if an opportunity opens up and a producer needs the abilities demonstrated, the actor gets a job. Here Austin Briggs-Hall, of 466 Cherry Street, New York, is being auditioned by Georgette Heine, of the CBS-TV staff. Briggs-Hall has performed on several New York stations on radio, played the role of a GI on a U.S. Signal Corps educational film back in 1945, and toured with the National Company of Margaret Webster's Shakespeare Company, performing in "Caesar" and "Taming of the Shrew" on the road.

International League next spring. Although no Negroes have ever competed in that Class B circuit, Cambria declares that there is no rule against it, their signed contracts are in the hands of the league president.

Colored players who starred in the Havana Winter League have been passed upon the Florida International League, stated the club president. This was done out of respect of the unwritten rule against Negro players in that state.

In a letter to Griffith, Cambria expressed hope that the colored players would be acceptable to the whole league. He believes they will be accepted because "baseball thinking in the South has changed."

For years, colored organizations and baseball fans have protested the failure of the Senators to interest themselves in Negro talent. Whenever Griffith was approached on the subject, he usually replied that "the time is not right yet," or "we do not want to break up the colored leagues."
