Sunday School Lesson

THE PEOPLE MAKE THEIR CHOICE
Scripture — Joshua 23-24.
Memory Selection—Choose you this day whom you will serve. Joshua 24:15.

Present Day Application
By Frederick D. Jordan
Los Angeles, Calif.

All life is a matter of choices. Each day we come to a "fork in the road" and must make a choice. Have you come to a fork on a highway and without consulting your map, decided that one road looked more likely to be the right one than the other and turned on it? We did once on an automobile trip from Leaventhworth, Kansas to Denver. Mile after mile slipped by as we chatted and sang. Suddenly one of us remarked that the highway signs were getting far between. We began to watch in vain for the next one. Soon the road was less smooth and appeared less traveled, it took a sudden turn and wound up in a farm yard. Isn't that what happens when we make unwise choices? The only right choice, the only right choice for Christmas is to seek the guidance of God. Evaluate every influence in the light of God, then stand by your convictions.

Critics Praise Dorothy Maynor's Singing in Concert

ST. LOUIS. (ANP). Critics were generous in their praise of Miss Dorothy Maynor's singing in the Christmas Festival concert at Kiel Auditorium here.

Miss Maynor a soprano was one of two soloist presented last week in the concert sponsored jointly by the Back Festival Choir, and the St. Louis symphony orchestra. The other was Glenn Schnittke a tenor.

Miss Maynor sang two arias: "Come Be Glad in This Season of Joy" from Handel's "Messiah" and the celebrated "Alleluia" of Mozart. She also participated in several ensembles. Commenting on her performance, the St. Louis Louis Post-Dispatch said in part: "Dorothy Maynor's soprano aria beginning with the words "Ah, my Saviour" was the expression not only of a cultivated artist, in its finely controlled inflection, but also reflected a spiritual joy and elevation.

"The echo at the cadences—a note repeated by a voice in the chorus and an instrument in the orchestra—was a device that only a genius would think of and only a genius could bring off without seeming theatrical."

Southern Regional Council Outlines New South Plans

ATLANTA, Ga. — (ANP)—The Southern Regional Council at its recent Atlanta meeting issued a major statement calling for a "South of the future, in which artificial distinctions and discriminations based upon race will no longer persist." The meeting also elected officers.

The council, which is made up of church, civic, business, labor and professional people of both races in 13 southern states, was assembled for its eighth annual membership meeting.

Marion A. Wright, Linville Falls, N. C., was elected president of the organization to succeed Paul D. Williams, Richmond, Va. Wright, an attorney, practiced law in Conway, S. C., until 1948. Since then he has held several civic offices in the state.

Newly elected vice presidents are Dr. Albert W. Dent, president of Dillard university, New Orleans; Alfred Mynders, editor of the Chattanooga Times, and Dr. Gordon B. Hancock, Baptist minister and professor at Virginia Union university in Richmond. Carter Wesley, publisher of the Houston Informer, was reelected vice president.

Functions of the council may be summed up as follows:

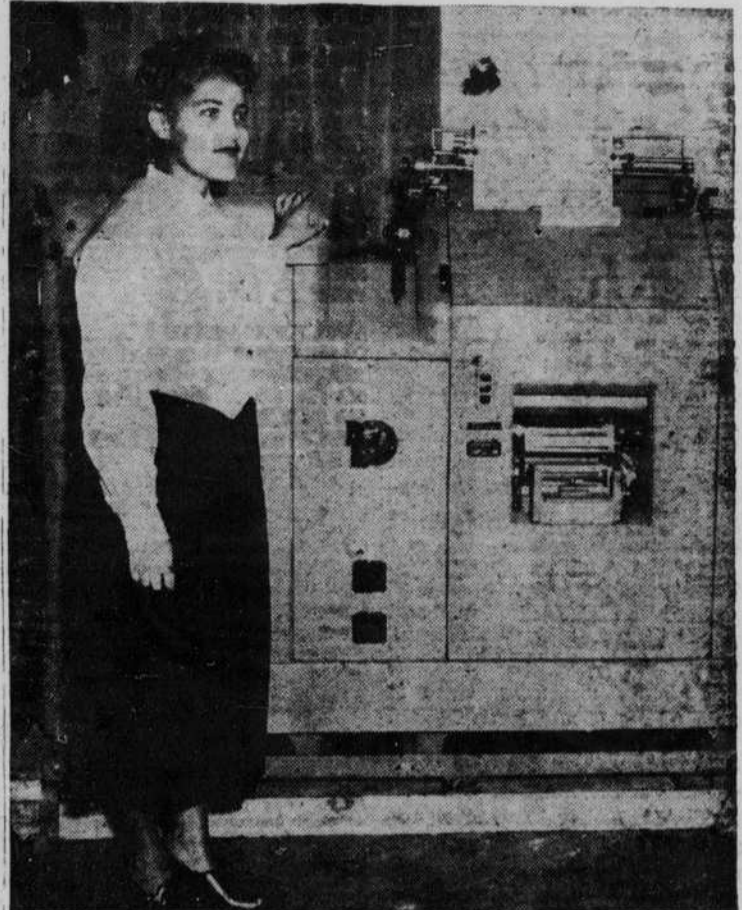

"To serve as a meeting ground for citizens of all races, occupations, and religious faiths; to present the facts about the region, and their implications, through available media; to counteract appeals to prejudice and violence by demagogues, professional bigots, and hate organizations.

"Also to provide a program adaptable to local need in both the relatively backward and the relatively advanced areas of the south; to translate appropriate research findings from universities and other centers to the practical situations with which the action program will be concerned.

"Also to give special emphasis to the development of leadership among promising young southerners of all races; to convene, by interest groups, key persons in the various fields of southern life, so that steps to genuine integration may be representatively agreed upon, and to stimulate local initiative to work for local solutions in full democracy..."

In order to implement its program, the council intends to use: Trained, competent, professional persons of both races working in
