

Along The Party Line

I am writing from Camp Point, Illinois, I am with Joe and we have been away from St. Louis for over a week. We were in the Tri-cities for almost a week trying to hire a man for that territory. Rock Island and Moline, Illinois with Davenport, Iowa from the tri-cities, but East Moline and Bettendorf have grown until now the group is sometimes called the quad or quint-cities. I was very surprised to find so much industrial development in the area. The J. I. Case Co., John Deer, Alcoa and many others have large plants located in the various towns. The Bettendorf Company is almost the town of Bettendorf, but I failed to find an answer to the question of what they manufacture. The Alcoa or Aluminum company of America has a plant which is a picture of what manufacturing should be and seldom is. The grounds are landscaped and the buildings, which cover acres of ground, are all of aluminum.

The Tri-Cities use the banks of the Mississippi for parking and while we were there, one car went

Each city has its own little and big prejudices toward minority groups. In most of them a Negro is not welcome in a hotel as a guest but when dressed in a uniform, adds prestige to the same hotel as a doorman.

VICTOR E. ANDERSON

- ★ BUSINESSMAN
- ★ FORMER LEGISLATOR
- ★ LINCOLN'S PRESENT MAYOR

★ REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Victor E. Anderson comes from a typical Nebraska background. His parents, Ernest E. and Mary Anderson, who came to the United States from Sweden, settled first in Omaha and then in Havelock where his father went to work in the railroad shops. Later, father and son became associated in a hardware store, a business which Victor E. Anderson still operates.

Victor E. Anderson enjoyed a typical Nebraska boyhood. He carried newspapers, attended Sunday School, participated in grade and high school activities. He attended the University of Nebraska, but left in his junior year to join his father in business. Upon his father's death, Victor E. Anderson continued the operation of the hardware store.

Victor E. Anderson has always been active in civic and political affairs, serving for 25 years as a Republican party precinct worker and committeeman. In 1949, he served as one of the outstanding members of the Nebraska Legislature.

In 1950, Victor E. Anderson was appointed to fill an unexpired term as mayor of Nebraska's capital city. In 1951, Lincoln voters expressed their overwhelming confidence in Victor E. Anderson by returning him to office by a 9-1 margin.

As a result of his background and training, Victor E. Anderson takes a business-like, down-to-earth approach to governmental affairs.
