Okla. A&M Barred From Drake Relays
DES MOINES, Ia. (ANP)—The Drake Relays committee announced this week that it will bar Oklahoma A. & M. from the 1952 Drake Relays because of the "Johnny Bright incident."
A spokesman for the committee asserted:
"Consistent with the policy adopted by University, the relays

Scripture—Luke 7:36-50.
Memory Selection—Be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another. Ephesians 4:22.
Present Day Application, By Frederick D. Jordan, Los Angeles, Calif.
The self-righteous are with us today. I used to listen to the president of my Stewardess Board pray. She would thank God that she was not like others, particularly her husband, who rarely, if ever, came to church. Always some member is criticising another because he does not attend or contribute as they do. Some are not content with parading the riown righteousness, but want others to call attention to it also. Are you satisfied with your goodness? Do you think the church would be fine if the other members were as faithful as you? Have I drawn your picture today? See if any of these instances describes you. Do not shut Christ out of your life. The desire to be better than what you are, the admission of your imperfections, will draw you the closer to Christ.

committee has voted not to extend an invitation to Oklahoma A. & M.
Drake University broke off relations with Oklahoma and withdrew from the Missouri Valley conference after Johnny Bright suffered his famous broken jaw.

New Drug Developed

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (ANP)—A new drug for the treatment of tuberculosis has been developed by the Lederle Laboratories Division of American Cynamid Co.
A description of the drug—aldinamide—and its use was made public last week at the 11th annual Veterans Administration Army-Navy Conference on Chemotherapy of Tuberculosis.
The drug is related to niacin, a vitamin commonly found in milk and egg yolks. It was tested in

Along The Party Line

Traveling can prove both amusing and trying, sometimes almost at the same time. While at Davenport, Iowa we had a nice room but we also seemed to be in a busy part of the hotel. The occupant of the room across the way was an early riser but not of his own volition Each morning at approximately 5:30 a.m. someone with a masculine voice would rap sharply and call "Eddie, Eddie!" no answer again. "Eddie, Eddie come on, I'll meet you in the lobby. From that time on, by various means people were being called all along the hall. Only thing that would have been worse, would have been that we were the first actually up.
We took time off one evening to go to Carlock, Illinois, to visit with Joe's cousins. They are wonderful people and we enjoyed our visit. They are quite elderly and have had some sickness but were all in good spirits. It was difficult for them to understand why we could not stay longer. Even a salesman has a pretty rigid schedule to keep.
One of the girls, who was a waitress where we had some of our meals was also a professional basketball player and was leaving for a tour that week. It was to take them down into old Mexico.
We also called on Otto Brinkman at Davenport. He was a partner of the Wekesser-Brinkman Publishing company which operated in Lincoln until 1945.
If you would like to know what a turkey feels like in November just wait until March 15th.

Lincoln University Receives $7,000; London Times to Feature School

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY, Pa.—(ANP)—Lincoln university (Pa.) has been selected for honor from two different sources, it was announced last week.
The late Joel L. DeCoursey, Havre de Grace, Maryland, who never went to college, was so concerned over the future of Negroes that he left $7,000 to Lincoln for the education of young people. The university received the money from his estate last week.
Another honor came to the university when the London Times, most famous paper in the British empire, announced that it will run a special feature in the near future on Lincoln university.
The article will be written in recognition of Lincoln' approaching centennial in 1954 and the influence its African-graduates have had upon the British empire.
Among the outstanding African graduates of Lincoln are Dr. Kwamo Nkrumas, hed o. the recently organized semi-domination status government in the Gold Coast, and Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, who led his party to victory in the recent elections in Nigeria.
DeCoursey stated in his will that his money be placed in a trust for his sister, Mrs. Frances O. Brown, and at her death be divided equally between Lincoln, Morgan State college, and the AME Aged Colored Peoples Home in Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Brown died in July 1951.

The bequest made a total of more than $372,000 Lincoln has received from Negroes, mostly alumni, in the last five years.
