Publishers Study Cost of Newsprint

ST. LOUIS — Members of the National Newspaper Publishers Association at their thirteenth annual convention in St. Louis' Kiel Auditorium, June 19, 20 and 21, concluded that Negro newspapers must cooperatively seek a stabilization of newsprint prices and improve their products if they are to survive the present crisis of rising production and increasing competition.

At the Saturday morning session, all officers were re-elected. They are Louis E. Martin, editor of the Michigan Chronicle, president; Carl Murphy, Afro-American, vice president; William O. Walker, secretary, and Mrs. R. L. Vann, the Courier, treasurer.

Following the annual banquet in the Auditorium Refectory Saturday night, a group of publishers visited the home of Joseph E. Mitchell, editor-publisher of the

YOU'RE FIRED

1. This is a phrase now commonly heard that leaves some persons much disturbed.
2. But at times there are those to whom these words are spoken, who are bigger than the one appearing as the spokesman.
3. The one thing that really counts is to know that all requirements have been met in one's commission, leaving no cause for misapprehension.
4. For the one who has done the firing without just cause, will be recognized as one in error, and in the future be made to pause.
5. The person set aside is not always at fault . . . ill-judgment, prejudice and meanness can't always be taken for naught.
6. For, the blameless Christ in His day, facing such accusers as these, had to hang between two thieves on the cross; but His hanging there only glorified Him, and made the case for His accusers far worse.

7. You need never become disheartened when tested . . . this is your time when Jesus steps in; Satan's outlook to him, may appear ever so promising . . . but if you stay on your knees, he cannot win.
8. So give forth the very best in daily service—Satan can come just so near; let God see sincerity in your actions, and at on time you need have any fear.
9. For right is might, and cannot fail, though all hell its dominions employ; as long as one keeps close to God, Satan cannot annoy.

11. For it is then his victim is bound with fetters strong until no longer he can resist, and Satan moves in with overwhelming power and thrusts his deadly fist.
12. It is this treachery O Man to which every human being is exposed . . . and to those who think they can double-cross God and serve Mammon too, told Satan is saying "just continue these false moves, my man, and in the end I'LL FIRE YOU."

Political Picture

BY ANP

CHICAGO (ANP) — Chicago—the convention city—is sprucing itself for an avalanche of delegates to the three national conventions which meet here in July.

With the vanguard—press agents and campaign managers—of the parties already arriving, now would be the time to let the people in on what occurs at the conventions.

Top business for the Republican and Democratic parties will, of course, be the selection of candidates for the presidency. The Progressive party already has selected its presidential and vice presidential candidates.

The Republican party national convention will be open for one week beginning July 7. To be nominated for President on the Republican ticket, a candidate will have to garner 604 of the 1,206 delegates.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY national convention opens July 21 and will continue for one week. To be nominated as a presidential candidate on this ticket, candidate must obtain 616 of the 1,230 delegates.

THE DEMOCRATS HAVE a few more delegates because their rules permit splitting of votes. For example, some of the delegates-at-large will cast only half a vote.

In both conventions the winning nominee needs only a simple majority. For many years the Democrats required the winning nominee to get two-thirds majority.

This two-thirds rule was put into effect by southerners to give them an effective veto on convention actions. The rule, however, was dropped in 1936 on orders from President Roosevelt.

BALLOTING FOR PRESIDENT and vice president candidates is held after all other major business of the convention is completed. Here is the procedure:

The clerk begins the roll call by states, alphabetically: Alabama, Arizona, etc.

During a roll call, a state may take one of four actions:

Nominate a candidate; yield to another state so it can nominate a candidate; second a nomination, or pass.

After the nominations, the balloting begins. Balloting also follows alphabetical order, with the chairman of the delegation announcing how his state votes.

For example, Alabama in 1948 had 14 votes in the Republican convention and cast nine for Gov. Thomas Dewey and five for Sen. Robert Taft.

IF A DELEGATE DESIRES, he can change the vote and then each delegate is called separately to announce his choice.

If no candidate receives a majority of all votes cast on the first ballot, the convention keeps balloting until one does.

The same procedure is observed for selection of a vice presidential candidate.

Both the Republican and Democratic parties will hold their conventions in the Amphitheatre which recently installed a $350,000 air cooling system. The temperature inside the building will be 20 degrees cooler than on the outside.

The Progressive Party will not have to ballot since it already has selected its candidates. They are Vincent Hallinan and Mrs. Charlotte A. Bass, for president and vice president, respectively.

Their convention, which meets in the Ashland auditorium, will be lacking in the color it formerly had when Henry Wallace was active in it. Probably one of the reasons for this is that the issue of Communism has been too closely associated with it. Moreover, the chief business at the Progressive party convention will center on how far to the left will they make their platform.

Among the noted persons who are expected to attend the Progressive party convention will be Dr. W. E. B. DuBois and Paul Robeson.

Meanwhile, John Foster Dulles and Clarence Budington Kelland have been named to help draft the GOP platform.

Politics is producing repercussions in other sections of the country.

Inhabitants of New Zealand have the longest life expectancy. George Washington did not belong to a political party.

QUESTION: I wish to divide my spacious basement into four rooms, and have heard that cement blocks such as are used in offices can be utilized as dividers. These walls would then be plastered. Can you let me know what materials can be used for this purpose?

—R. T., Flushing, N. Y.

ANSWER: Among materials used for this purpose, where no load is carried on the partition, are 4-inch cement blocks, gypsum blocks, hollow tile. These are cemented together and can be plastered over later.

QUESTION: I am purchasing a shell home and wonder if you can tell me if a footing is necessary. Everyone tells me this is needed, but the contractor showed me charts to prove it is not needed.

—E. B., Chicago, Illinois

ANSWER: Ordinarily a footing is required to distribute the weight of the building over a larger area where the soil is loose. However, a poured concrete foundation does not always require a footing, especially when reinforcing is used. Such a foundation, as a solid mass, is not apt to crack at any one point, even though a corner or short length may be undermined by rain-action or seepage. This type of foundation distributes its load over the entire bearing surface evenly.

QUESTION: I have two tree stumps 12 inches in diameter in my front yard. Can you tell me how to remove them without breaking my back or tearing up half the lawn with a pick and shovel?

—E. N. K., Pittsburgh, Penna.

ANSWER: Digging and blasting being impractical, there are two possible methods of removal. Bore holes with a 1/2-inch auger or larger, straight down through the heart of the stump, and angling these holes into the base of the larger roots. Pour in kerosene daily for several days until the stump is saturated. Then set fire to it. Another way, without smoke, is to pour one of the compost-producing chemicals into similar holes and then let the stump rot rapidly away. Each process requires several weeks.
