Muscular Dystrophy Fund Campaign In Progress

The second nationwide appeal for funds for Muscular Dystrophy research is currently being conducted by the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc. Leading the 1952-53 national campaign efforts is Justice William O. Douglas, Supreme Court of the United States, who is serving as honorary national chairman for the appeal. Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis will serve as national co-chairmen. At this time, 89 member chapters of the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc. throughout the nation are joining together in a united crusade to raise funds necessary to the continuation and increasing of Muscular Dystrophy research.

More than 100,000 persons in the United States are now victims of this progressive muscle-wasting disease for which, at present, there is no known treatment or cure. The majority of the afflicted are youngsters, most of whom will not live beyond adolescence unless a cure is found.

The Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc., was established two years ago for the purpose of fostering medical research to find effective treatment and cure for this long neglected disease. As a result of the first nationwide appeal held in 1951, muscular dystrophy research projects have been established in 17 laboratories in the United States and abroad. It is imperative that these projects be continued, and that more research work be established on a larger scale to accelerate progress toward discovery of a cure.

To the thousands and thousands of afflicted persons and their families, the current appeal for funds for research contains the only hope for active productive lives. Contributions should be sent to local M.D.A. Chapters or to M.D.A., New York 8, N.Y.

NEBR. GAME COMMISSION

LINCOLN, Neb. — The removal of size limits on game fish, opening of new Enders reservoir and a year-around trout season are on tap for Nebraska anglers in 1953. This announcement was made by the Nebraska Game Commission following its recent meeting at which it set the '53 fishing regulations.

Beginning Jan. 15, any game fish legally caught, regardless of its size, may be taken. Unlike previous fishing in this state, fishermen need not worry about whether or not the fish is long enough to keep. There are no size limits.

Almost 300,000 fish will be on hand Jan. 15 when new Enders reservoir opens its broad waters to the state's army of fishermen. The stocking of Enders was one of the heaviest on record. This marks the second straight year that a new reservoir has been opened. During '51, Medicine Creek reservoir was opened to fishing for the first time.

The entire state will be open to trout fishing throughout the year. During '52, 35 counties had an April 1-Oct. 31 trout season while the remaining counties had a year-around season.

It seems that there must always be some bad news along with the good. This was true at the Game Commission meeting and will affect bait vendors. The Commission announced that there is a definite possibility that all commercial seining of minnows may be prohibited in 1954.

If the ban on commercial seining of minnows occurs in '54, bait vendors will undoubtedly have to rely on minnows they raise themselves, which, incidentally, is relatively inexpensive. Anyone interested in propagating minnows can receive printed material on that subject by writing to the Lincoln office of the Game Commission.

The same bag and possession limits on game fish as prevailed in '51 will be in effect next year with two exceptions. These are (1) Holt County was added to cherry, Brown and Rock counties where the bag and possession limit on bullheads is 25 and 25, and (2) the same county was added to Cherry, Brown and Rock counties where there is no limit on perch.

Only other major change in the regulations is the addition of the prohibition against the seining for or otherwise taking of minnows or any bait from lakes or bayous.

Printed copies of the 1953 fishing regulations are expected to be available during the latter part of January from permit vendors, conservation officers and the Game Commission office.

Question: Last winter, moisture collected on the composition board walls of my home, and some started to mildew. I wish to re-paper the room, but fear the mildew will ruin the new paper. Will painting help, or what would you suggest?

S.D., Anselmo, Neb.
Answer: Wash the mildewed areas with household ammonia or chloroform compounds to kill the mildew, and when dry, paint the area with shellac. Over this you can paint or paper as you prefer. As mentioned in the April-May '52 issue of the Family Handyman there are also several commercial mildewcides now available, which will serve the same purpose.

Question: We have a hot water heating system, two radiators of which never give off much heat. Is there anything we can do to correct this trouble?

E.E.O., Brecksville, O.
Answer: Hot water radiators that fail to heat are usually air-bound. If you have a valve at the upper corner, remove it, or open the valve with a key, to let the air escape. You might try replacing the valve with a self-venting type which eliminates this trouble permanently.
