Quinn Chapel News

Sunday, March 1st, is Quarterly Conference at Quinn Chapel. Presiding Elder John Adams will preach at the Sunday morning service, and preside at the business meeting, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

At 4:00 p.m., Rev. Harris will have as his guest the dynamic Christian leader, Rev. Trago McWilliams, who will preach the sermon for a service of dedication sponsored by the young people.

Great things are in store for those who will attend the Mid-Winter Musical Festival. The Auditorium of the Urban League is the place, 8:00 p.m. is the time, and March 5th is the date.

A large group from the church accompanied the pastor to the Mount Zion Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon, where he rendered the sermon and the Sunday School Choir furnished the music. An item from last Sunday's bulletin reads as follows:

Thank you: Your support of Founder's Day and other projects made it possible for the church to meet its payment in full for Educational Assessment. From Kansas City, Mo., where we met in a two-day session the Bishop sends greetings to Presiding Elder, pastor and congregation. Of the 12 districts represented only three made perfect reports. The Nebraska district, of which we are a member, was one of the three.

Thought for today: "A fence at the top of a precipice is worth more than a hospital at the bottom."

Campus Corner

By Stella Woodlee

Two sparkling social events lightened last week end's regular campus activity. February 20, the Women's Residence Halls Formal was held at the Cornhusker Ballroom for all residents and their guests. Paul Kidd and Joyce Williams, Charles Bryant and Gladys Bradford, Lloyd Williams and Lillian Rogers, Sylvester Harris and Stella Woodlee enjoyed dancing to the music of the Johnny Cox Orchestra.

A small but appreciative crowd attended the Cliff Dudley concert-dance at the Union Saturday night. The Dudley orchestra, from Omaha, features lovely Richetta Lewis, vocalist. Richetta impressed her audience with her smoothly perfect renditions of "Tenderly," "Smooth Sailing," and others. After a two-hour dance, Cliff Dudley announced the brief concert which developed into a jam session and ran overtime. The crowd thrilled to the artistic handling of such tunes as "St. Louis Blues," which featured Luigi, the drummer, "Strike Up the Band," "Night Train," and the old standard, "Saturday Night Fish Fry." Few who were there would miss Cliff Dudley when he again comes to Lincoln.

"Modern dancing has grown out of the need for more free expression than that which is in the classic ballet." This was stated by Miss Harriette Ann Gray who, with her modern dance troupe, led an all-day clinic Friday at the University. The clinic included a lecture-demonstration, a methods class, and the final evening concert.

Thank You Cards

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends for their comforting expressions of sympathy at the passing of our beloved one, Melissa Bedell.

Mrs. Susie Marshall, Eva J. Smith and son, and Anita Taylor.

PRECOCIOUS YOUNGSTER

When a child learns something new, he is usually eager to display it. A little fellow in West Point, after learning of Jesus and the cross, enthusiastically ran to his daddy with this query: "Did you know Jesus is head of the Red Cross?"

April 3 and 4, Brownsville of the Gulf Coast League at Victoria. On April 7, Randolph Field at San Antonio.

The Chiefs should arrive in Lincoln on the afternoon of the 13th, and depart the following day for Des Moines where they will open the season April 15. Interspersed in this exhibition schedule will be intra-squad games as deemed advisable by Manager Lou Finney.

The Chiefs have announced that their new uniforms will be red, white and blue. At home they will wear the traditional white with scarlet and navy braid down the front, around the sleeves, and on the belt loops, with solid navy stockings, navy caps with scarlet and white fancy block L, and Chiefs written across the front in the same three color combination. The road uniforms will, of course, be grey, with the same color trim and Lincoln across the front.

Demonstration Has Birthday

On February 26, the Farm Demonstration Work, which is the forerunner of the Agricultural Extension Service, will celebrate its golden anniversary.

Fifty years ago, Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, and farmers of Terrell, Texas, made arrangements for the first farm demonstration. Since then, the Agricultural Extension Service has become the educational arm of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

While corn production has doubled and tripled, education has
