MEETING OF IROQUOIS LODGE, NO. 92 I. B. P. O. E. OF W.

After the business of the lodge was finished, election of the new officers for the ensuing term was held. Exalted ruler Brother Paul S. Holliday, read a report of his stewardship for the past 11 months. It was received with rounds of applause and before being placed in the archives of the lodge Brother Holliday was given a rising vote of thanks and termed the best exalted ruler that the Elks of this city have ever had. The meeting was the largest and most harmonious ever held in a local Elks lodge, there being more than 260 members present. Brother Holliday was unanimously elected to succeed himself for the third successive time, with peace and harmony prevailing. Brother Holliday's old cabinet was returned to office with him.

Brother W. L. Meyers was elected to fill an unexpired term on the trustee board for the next five years.

The following members were reported as being on the sick list: Brothers Ed. Killingsworth, Preston Gamble, E. A. Williamson, Joe Kaigler and Allen Jones. Brother James Carter, who was accidentally shot while on a hunting trip was able to be out to the meeting and gave a lecture on Elkdom. Brother Charles Joiner, a member of this lodge, but now a resident of Denver, Colo., was a visitor as was also Brother Harry Douglas of Gopher Lodge, No. 105, St. Paul, Minn.

The records of the organization show that during Brother Holliday's administration the membership of the organization has been increased more than 100 per cent and never in history has the financial condition of the order been better than it is at this time, more than 35 hundred dollars having been added to the treasury in the past year, making Iroquois lodge No. 92 the largest and strongest lodge in the city and one of the largest and strongest in the middle west. The property owned by the Elks has grown too small to adequately house the organization. At this time a stupendous building program has been arranged. The plans are for a fifty thousand dollar lodge hall and community center within the next five or six months.

The success of Brother Holliday may be attributed to that spirit of unity and co-operation which is only characteristic of an Elk.
