
tures to the primary pledge. Please send me a blank pledge and ten subscription cards. I will do all the work I can for the good of The Commoner. democrats who have slgned the pledge and who are enthusiastic over the prospects the party now has of re-establishing itself with power. This list represents but a few hour's work, and could easily be done by any good democrats who would arouse himself sufficiently to present a paper to his democratic friends while he transacts democratic friends while he transacts his other business.. We suggest that The Commoner appont someone in each locality to circulate the pledge and make a complete organization by April 1, 1906.

MR BRYAN IN THE PHILIPPINES The following poem, "My Last Thoughts," being the last written by ose Rizal, was read at a reception given to Mr. Bryan in the Philippines:
The following poem, being the last written by Jose Rizal, was read: Farewell, adored ratherland! Our Eden lost, farewent
Farewell, O sun's lov'd region, pearl of the Eastern sea:
Gladly I die for thy dear sake: Yea thou knowest well
Were my sad life more radiant far more mortal tongue could tell. Yet would I give it gladly, joyously for thee.
On blood-stained field of battle, fastlocked in madd'ning strife,
Thy sons have dying blest thee, untouched by doubt or fear
No matter wreaths of laurel; no mat ter where our lire
Ebbs out, on scaffold, or in combat, or under torturer's knife,
We welcome Death if for our hearths, or for our country dear.
I die while dawn's rich iris hues are staining yet the sky,
Heralds of the freer day still hidden from our vlew
Behind the night's dark man should the morning nigh eed crimson shed my heart's blood quickly, freely let It dye
The new-born light with the glory of its ensanguined hue.
My dreams when yet were ling'ring my childhood's careless years,
My dreams, my hopes, when vigor pulsed in my youthful heart,
Were that one day, gem of the East, thine eyes, undimmed with tears Might darkly glow, that I might see unwrinkled, free from fears
