

believe a party sincerely advocating such policies can be defeated?

"Democracy has the candidate. It has him who so boldly announced to wealth and corporate greed, the supreme question in 1896, that the people must control, that continued it in the contest of 1900; that stood one of the foremost figures in 1904, and who today is recognized as the one man who never placed the dollar above the man.

"A united democracy stands at his side this hour and upholds his arm and heralds his name throughout the civilized world as its most worthy exponent. A united democracy today in every portion of this nation, with but one thought as its motto, truth and honesty, presents in the citizen of Nebraska the choice of a united party for the exalted position of chief executive of a great nation."

M. F. Harrington of O'Neill spoke on the subject, "God Hates a Coward."

In the beginning of his address Mr. Harrington paid much attention to tax. He declared the people are desperately in earnest in the move to destroy the great trusts. He dealt with the trust question at length. He declared stock gambling could be taxed out of existence. He discussed the panic and said students of finance well understood that panics are caused by bad money and a bad industrial system. He thought the Roosevelt administration had done the wrong thing by depositing government money in the New York banks. He had little hope of beneficial legislation from this congress.

olutely hold the rupture and never slip and yet is light, cool, comfortable, conforms to every movement of the body without chafing or hurting and costs less than many ordinary trusses. There are no springs or hard, lumpy pads and yet it holds the rupture safely and firmly without pain or inconvenience. I have put the price so low that any person, rich or poor, can buy, and I absolutely guarantee it.

I make it to your order—send it to you—you wear it, and if it doesn't satisfy you send it back to me and I will refund your money.

That is the fairest proposition ever made by a rupture specialist. The banks or any responsible citizen in Marshall will tell you that is the way I do business—always absolutely on the square.

If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Write me today and I will send you my book on Rupture and its Cure, showing my appliance and giving you prices and names of people who have tried it and been cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember I use no salves, no harness, no lies. Just a straight business deal at a reasonable price.

He said the farmers and business men of the great west have been helping the trusts by building up the packers. He made a plea for a north and south railroad and declared that the railroad magnates while taking millions from their patrons had refused to build the roads the commerce of the country needs.

Mr. Bryan was the last on the list of speakers.

THE PLAN OUTLINED

The following Washington dispatch is printed by the Philadelphia North American: "Organized effort to prevent the nomination of William Jennings Bryan by the democratic national convention has made such progress that those behind the movement are proclaiming that when the convention meets they will be in position to tell Bryan some plain truths which should result in his withdrawal as a candidate. The plainest truth to be presented is that if he insists upon becoming the nominee, the democrats who believe that his leadership has at all times meant party disaster, will treat his candidacy as he and his friends treated the candidacy of Alton B. Parker, and will make his defeat so overwhelming that he can never again be regarded as a presidential possibility. In brief, Bryan is to be told that he must eliminate himself or be eliminated. In return for a promise to withdraw, the men who believe Bryan's defeat in the convention possible will agree to support any other candidate that Bryan and his friends suggest. One week ago the opposition to Bryan had not progressed in their plans beyond the stage where it was urged that uninstructed delegates should be sent to the convention. Since then so responsive have democratic leaders shown themselves to the suggestion that Bryan be sidetracked, that a determination has now been reached to elect a sufficient number of anti-Bryan delegates to make more than one-third of the convention. As the rule of democratic conventions require that two-thirds of all the votes are necessary to nominate, it is seen that this plan, if successful, will place the anti-Bryan men where they can read the riot act to the Nebraskan. And this is what they intend to do. Southern men generally who are not openly opposed to Bryan are determined that the two-thirds rule of the convention shall not be abolished, and it is this rule that gives the minority its opportunity. That a third of the convention opposed to Bryan can be chosen is practically certain. New York will be against him, and will probably instruct for Chanler or some other New York man to keep the delegation away from the Nebraskan. Minnesota will be for Governor Johnson, as will also Wisconsin. Ohio will be for Harmon. Pennsylvania is likely to be for Judge Gray, of Delaware, Illinois will probably not have a candidate but will be against Bryan.

KNEW WHAT TO DO

One of the Idaho senators was telling a friend in Washington of the partnership entered into by two young men from the east for the purpose of conducting a cattle ranch in Idaho.

In a few years they became quite affluent, so much so, in fact, that the elder brother could not resist a favorable opportunity to revisit the east for a month or so.

During his absence, it appears, an accident befell the head stockman, one McIntyre, who it was feared had sustained some internal injury by reason of the kick of a bucking colt.

The younger member of the firm, in doubt in the matter, telegraphed his brother in the east for instructions as to certain formalities in this connection.

"McIntyre badly mused up," ran the telegram, "medical advice necessary. Wire instructions."

The answer came: "Stop his wages from date of accident."—Sunday Magazine.

DEMOCRACY'S OPPORTUNITY

Under the caption, "Democratic Opportunity with Bryan," the Washington Herald has an editorial directing attention to the dissensions in the republican party and the opportunity these schisms give to the democrats under the leadership of William Jennings Bryan

The Herald thinks that if Rooseveltism passes, it will be succeeded by "Bryanism." By "Bryanism" it means, doubtless, the policies that Mr. Bryan has made so definitely known and understood within the last few years. In that sense, Bryanism is democracy; and it is worthy of repetition here that Mr. Roosevelt has, over and over again, gravitated or drifted toward this democracy, and increased or lost in popularity as he drew near to or departed from it.

There is no doubt that the best chance for the democracy is union under the leadership of Mr. Bryan, and this is becoming every day more and more understood and accepted, even by those who have honestly opposed him.—Columbia (S. C.) State,
