in 1900. Such, however, is not the case; the Bryan vote exceeded the Parker vote in New Hampshire by 1,497.

When all these facts are considered in the light of the further fact that, in all the debatable states, Bryan is admittedly much stronger today than he was either in 1896 or 1900, it is easy to understand why the World has met with so little success in trying to persuade democrats that it would be inexpedient to nominate Bryan this year.—Omaha World-Herald.

THE TRUE MAP OF BRYANISM

The World-Herald publishes today, on the first page, a couple of maps as a supplement to the New York World's "Map of Bryanism." These maps are accurate and fair, and they speak for themselves. It is impossible to study them and not realize Mr. Bryan's great strength as shown in his two campaigns for the presidency.

Mr. Cleveland, when he ran in 1892, was a very strong candidate. He had behind him a united and aggressive party, the prestige of an able and successful first administration, and the support of the moral sentiment of the country. And he achieved a glorious victory. He was elected. Yet a study of the map will show that in winning this victory, Mr. Cleveland, in thirty states, polled fewer votes than Mr. Bryan polled in those same states in 1896, and in only fifteen states did he receive a larger vote than was cast for Mr. Bryan. In the total vote Cleveland, who was elected, got 5,611,775 votes; Bryan, though he was defeated, got 6,542,488 votes.

The showing made by the second map is just as conclusive. It is true that Judge Parker was not as strong a candidate as Mr. Cleveland. But he represented the choice of the New York World and the conservative element of the party. And, on election day, in only nine states did he poll more votes than did Bryan four years earlier, while in thirty-six states he ran far behind Bryan. His popular vote was 5,097,911, as against 6,371,961 votes cast for Mr. Bryan in 1900.

The maps show that Bryan, the defeated candidate of 1896, was stronger than Cleveland, the successful candidate of 1892, in such pivotal states as California, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota and West Virginia, not to mention Kansas, Nebraska, Oregon, Washington, South Dakota and other states that will be debatable ground this year.

The map shows that Bryan in 1900, was stronger than the World's candidate of 1904, not only in all the states named above except West Virginia, from which Mr. Davis was nominated, but that, in addition, he was stronger than Parker in such states as Connecticut, New Jersey and Wisconsin. Even in Pennsylvania, the seat of conservatism, he was stronger than Parker the conservative, and in New York, Parker's own state, the World's own territory, he ran only a little more than four thousand votes behind the vote given to Parker four years later.

There is one error in the map. The map indicates that in 1904 Mr. Parker received more votes in New Hampshire than Mr. Bryan received

Cannot Rest

Your appetite is gone. What little you eat distresses you. Strength is failing—are bilious. You have headache, backache, feel blue and melancholy—and cannot rest or sleep. The fact is your nerves are unstrung, and you are on the verge of nervous prostration. They must be strengthened, renewed. They will not cure themselves, but must have a nerve remedy. This you will find in

Dr. Miles' Nervine

It is prepared for just such ailments, and is a never-failing remedy, because it soothes, feeds and builds the nerves back to health.

If allowed to continue, stomach, kidney and liver troubles will soon be added to your already overflowing measure of misery.

"I suffered from nervous prostration. When I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine I couldn't hold anything in my hands, nor get from one room to another. Now I do all my own work."

MRS. CHAS. LANDRUM, Carthage, Mo.

Nervine seldom fails to do all we claim for it, and so we authorize druggists to refund money if first bottle does not benefit.
