still feeling the friction of the grindstones on our respective noses, and to us the problem of making a week's wages feed a family five days is no nearer solution now than it was when the inspiring and perspiring—and inspiring—prophet of Oyster Bay first burst upon the scene. Are you going to try and solve it for us, Mr. Clark? We are depending a lot on you; remember that. In the meantime the smell of a frying slice of bacon and the aroma of a boiled cold storage egg is about the finest Christmas present a lot of us workmen can think of.

I'd write some more, but I am warned by the clock that I must quit. If I'm a few minutes late to work in the morning I'll be docked, and under the beneficent provisions of the Aldrich tariff bill to be docked an hour's pay means that the kids and I will have to go hungry to bed one more night next week.

With best wishes for your future prosperity, and trusting that you will undertake to do a little in the way of legislating for the masses—one of whom I am which—I am, your ardent admirer.

MAUPIN.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

Justice Charles W. Dayton of the New York supreme court, died at his home in New York City at the age of 64 years. He was postmaster in New York under the second Cleveland administration.

A Leipsic cablegram, carried by the Associated Press follows: "The suit instituted by representatives of the Turkish government against the Reichsbank to compel that institution to surrender $4,500,000, which it has on deposit to the credit of the deposed sultan, Abdul Hamid, came before the imperial supreme court. When Abdul Hamid entrusted his personal fortune to the Reichsbank he exacted an agreement that the funds should not be withdrawn except on presentation of an order under his hand and seal. After he was driven from the throne the new government attempted to recover these funds, and laid before the bankers what purported to be a letter from the deposed sultan authorizing their withdrawal. The order, however, did not bear the secret seal agreed upon and the bank, which took the further ground that their customer, being practically a prisoner, was unable to act of his own free will, refused to surrender the money. Suit was then brought against the bank in the name of the former sultan in the provincial court at Berlin. This court dismissed the complaint, holding it was brought under compulsion and otherwise sustained the contentions of the Reichsbank. After the hearing of testi-
