

ANOTHER TRIUMPH

National prohibition is an assured fact and Nebraska has the honor of being the final state of the thirty-six necessary to ratify the amendment to the federal constitution, making prohibition nation-wide after January 16, 1920. The sudden and almost unanimous acceptance of this amendment is another triumph for Mr. Bryan. Already, he is responsible in a larger measure than any other man, for three great changes in the fundamental law of the nation. Senators elected by direct vote, an income tax and now national prohibition are fundamental measures which by the force of his great eloquence and his irresistible leadership Mr. Bryan has lived to see come into being while he is still a young man. In all American history, no man has had such a profound influence upon the national and international life as Mr. Bryan. Almost did he prevent the world war which broke out in 1914. President Wilson, in a recent discussion of peace settlements in Europe, publicly expressed his belief that had the nations of Europe adopted Mr. Bryan's plan of discussion before hostilities, the war would have been averted. His treaties of peace upon which he worked long and faithfully while secretary of state, were the beginnings of the world league for peace over which so much discussion is now being expended. In his declining years Mr. Bryan can look back over his record with great satisfaction as he sees millions of people, first denouncing, then discussing and finally enthusiastically accepting the great reforms which he courageously advocated early, at a time when their advocacy meant ridicule, personal insult and private rather than official life.—Fairbury, Nebr., Journal.

CURED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 791 E. Marcellus Avenue, Manassas, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

A Washington dispatch, dated Jan. 30, says: In urging immediate naval expansion today before the House Naval Committee which votes tomorrow on the Administration's new building program, Admiral Mayo, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, said:

"The league of nations is rapidly getting down to a sewing circle with no means of enforcement and no international police force. Now is the time to go to the limit in expanding our navy."

Construction of a new type of big naval ships, which embody features of the dreadnaught and battle cruiser, was recommended by Admiral Mayo. He favored 12-inch armor, instead of 16-inch now carried by the dreadnaught, and urged that better deck protection be provided on the big capital ships.

The Admiral agreed with Chairman Padgett that congress should authorize the construction of the number of capital ships, leaving the decision as to type, character, armor and speed to be worked out by the naval experts.

In urging naval expansion, the Admiral said that the present was the opportune time and that American expansion was expected by the world.

"Do you think that this is the opportune time to expand because other countries will stop building because of war debts?" asked Representative Kelley, of Michigan.

"Partly, but not primarily," responded Admiral Mayo. "We can expand now because the world expects it, but to do it later might cause trouble and it certainly would cause inquiry."

"I think that England will always try to keep ahead of the world," he continued.

"Then it is a race between us and England?" said Mr. Kelley.

"It may be," answered he Admiral. Admiral Mayo, when questioned regarding naval personnel, indorsed the recommendations of the Bureau of Navigation that there be not less than 8,000 officers in the navy by 1920, and that the complements of the ships in both officers and men be kept at war strength. He said the present shortage of naval officers was serious.

"No matter what the peace conference does," he declared, in urging further building, "nothing this congress can do will be up to our naval requirements. There was never a time when it was so necessary for the United States to be thoroughly prepared."

Commander Pye, who accompanied the Admiral, recommended construction of a super-destroyer larger and more heavily armed than those now building.
