Rupture Kills 7,000 Annually

Seven thousand persons each year are laid away—the burial certificate being marked "Rupture." Why? Because the unfortunate ones had neglected themselves or had been merely taking care of the sign (swelling) of the affliction and paying no attention to the cause. What are you doing? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance, or whatever name you choose to call it? At best, the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

But science has found a way, and every truss sufferer in the land is invited to make a FREE test right in the privacy of their own home. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO-PAD when adhering closely to the body cannot possibly slip or shift out of place, therefore, cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. To be used whilst you work and whilst you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached.

Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down. Send your name today to PLAPAO CO., Block 4040, St. Louis, Mo., for FREE trial. Plapao and the information necessary.

PENNSYLVANIA STAY-AT-HOMES

Pennsylvania, second state in population, was fourth in the total vote cast on November 2. The New York "World's" unofficial tabulation from reliable sources shows that two states—Illinois and Ohio—which have millions of citizens less than this commonwealth, cast hundreds of thousands more ballots. New York's total presidential vote was 3,365,419; Illinois polled 2,120,468; Ohio, 2,019,500; Pennsylvania, 1,849,992.

The discrepancy is even more astounding when reduced to percentages. Ohio's vote was 35 per cent of the population; that of Illinois 33 per cent; that of New York 32 per cent; Indiana, eleventh in population, polled 43 per cent of its citizens, leading the procession easily. Only 21 per cent of Pennsylvania's citizens voted! Let citizenship workers ponder!

Of course, it is easy to account for the heavy vote in Indiana by the intense interest aroused by the battle for the senatorship. The bitter factional fight in Illinois brought hundreds of thousands of lethargic voters to the booths. New York was excited by the stirring campaign for the governorship. Ohio waxed warm because the residence of the two leading presidential aspirants made it the battleground.

The New York "Herald" develops the same theory in a more general manner. Comparing the 1916 and 1920 vote in eleven states in which women voted for Presidential electors four years ago, it shows a marked falling off in the total count. In these states the vote of 1920 was less than 97 per cent of that of 1916. The "Herald" fails to include in its list Illinois, in which women voted in both years, but the loss of 72,229 in votes cast in that state does not affect the percentage. In the 12 states enumerated—Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wyoming and Illinois, 191,883 fewer votes were cast in 1920 than in 1916.

Those who have patience to carry the inquiry one step farther may reveal for themselves that Pennsylvania's sluggishness in the most important election is not peculiar to this year. In the four states which have been analyzed for 1920 and in which women did not vote in 1916, Pennsylvania stood fourth also in that year in percentage of vote to population, and Indiana, to her credit, stood first. Indiana's male voters four years ago constituted 24 per cent of her population. Ohio voted 20 per cent of her citizens. New York voted 16.4 per cent. Pennsylvania voted only 14.8 per cent.

The curious mind that would go over many past elections doubtless would find the same story repeated. It is useless to disguise the facts. Pennsylvania is difficult to move on election day. It is useless to dodge the issue. Pennsylvania's civic consciousness is one of the most dormant in the union. The exercise by citizens of the prerogatives of citizenship is one of the most trustworthy evidences of their interest in government.

Some are always quick to protest that Pennsylvania's light vote is due to the fact that the result has usually been a foregone conclusion. That is a dangerous and false premise. The truth is that the result is often a foregone conclusion because the vote is always certain to be light. Civic consciousness is not dead because people stay away from the polls. People stay away from the polls because civic consciousness is dead. That the vote is light is the superficial, visible symptom of the ailment; it is not the root and cause.

Let Pennsylvania ponder this: Indiana voted 43 per cent of her citizens in 1920; Ohio voted 35; Illinois voted 33; New York voted 32; Pennsylvania voted 21.

It is time for Pennsylvania to awaken.

Whether Pennsylvania votes Republican or Democratic in the long run may be comparatively unimportant.

It is desperately important that Pennsylvania vote. The only surety of a democracy is an intelligent and awakened citizenship. — Pittsburgh Sun.

BY WATER FROM THE OHIO TO THE GREAT LAKES

The report of the Chicago association of commerce on the question of a waterway connecting the Great Lakes with the Ohio river deserves careful attention. The practicability of the scheme in general, and the particular route to be chosen, are both under investigation by the board of United States engineers.

The association of commerce committee, after careful consideration, leans strongly toward an advocacy of the project known as the Cincinnati-Chicago-Toledo Barge Canal. From the Ohio at Cincinnati it runs through Hamilton, Middleton, Dayton and Defiance to Lake Erie at Toledo. From Defiance another canal strikes west through Fort Wayne to Lake Michigan at Michigan City.

This canal would not only offer cheap, direct transportation south for Great Lakes shipments in general, permitting Detroit, for instance, to ship on barges which could without difficulty be taken through protected waters to Toledo, but it would open an avenue from Chicago to Cincinnati and Louisville of inestimable value. Again, millions of tons of eastern Kentucky and West Virginia coal are used in Chicago annually, which by this waterway could be brought here much more cheaply than in any other fashion.

The St. Lawrence-Great Lakes Ship Canal greatly increases the importance of such a system of transportation as this to the states in the upper southern border. The route outlined would link closely Chicago, Detroit and Toledo with Dayton, Cincinnati and Louisville not to speak of other important cities along the way, and by so doing greatly relieve the congestion of traffic that now hampers the whole central western territory.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.
