

THE ADVERTISER.

R. W. FURNAS, EDITOR. THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 22, 1858.

We're a Used up Man—INDEED we are a Used up Man.

We feel so completely annihilated, that perhaps we ought not to attempt to rise from beneath the ponderous weight of wit, sarcasm, argument, evidence of thought and research, heaped upon us by a certain "Cape Cod, Nantucket, and all along the Shore" Gentleman of this county, signing himself "R. S.," and who made his appearance through the columns of "The Nemaha Valley Journal," of the 16th.

The shock, was not, however, as severe as it might have been, from the fact that we had been informed that a certain gentleman had spent nearly or quite a week in concocting what he intended should serve as an answer to our leader of the "What we Want, and What we do not Want." Indeed had we not been possessed of this information, the "Cape Cod" car marks were so plain that none need have erred, in guessing the author. This in addition to the knowledge of the fact that a short steamboat excursion "coasting the masses" had been indulged in, certainly leaves no doubt as to the origin of this wonderful production, or the assistance rendered in the poetical department thereof. "How pleasant everything is" when one's "better half" isn't around.

We are not surprised that such doctrine as we there set forth did not suit "R. S.," neither are we surprised that the quotation we used did not suit him, as published. We have no objections to his making such additions to that quotation as his inclination might dictate, that his views and feelings might be expressed and heralded to the people. But we do object to our "grain being measured in his bushel."

Be it known therefore, that we enter our protest against his mutilation. If such a version is in accordance with his views, feelings, and desires, we have no objection to say "we pity him."

We hope "R. S." may yet have a disposition to follow" us through the whole of our article referred to.

"Enigma."

Our neighbor BELIEF of the Journal comes down on us in his last issue "like a thousand of brick." We have read and re-read his article, and to save us can't see the point exactly he is driving at. Whether he feels slighted that we were solicited to deliver an oration on the 4th, and he "left out" or whether he does not feel a little pride in the fact that Nemaha City had the honor of the "social greeting, conversational excellence, and forensic eloquence, on that day," of the "real orator of that galaxy of shining lights," is somewhat mixed in our mind. We rather reckon, however, the latter is the point. Our cotemporary, no doubt has come to the conclusion that all men like himself are "enigmas past comprehension."

After copying our little squib, "Brownville Orators," he says: "How wonderfully does the habit, once imbibed, of local or sectional exaltation, or selfish adulation to promote a joint interest with a few, prostitute an exalted intellect to triumph even in the shadow of excellence!" [Ye Gods!]

"Of the Brownville orators, it gives us pleasure to learn from the editor of the Advertiser that he was considered one—though the editor of the Journal was left out. But there is one thing that that galaxy of 'shining lights,' could not find an appropriate audience at the place where his excellence ought to be published by substantial testimony. The Citizens of Nemaha city had the honor of his social greeting, and of his forensic eloquence on the day when the enterprising and patriotic of this country show their grit; and this is all their modesty boasts of."

Speaking by the Candidates.

A majority of the Candidates for the House have concluded, we are informed, to meet at the places and times of our appointments, as announced in the Candidates' column. Perhaps this will give as near satisfaction as any other arrangement. Our object in making the appointments, and inviting only candidates for the Council, to participate, was a fear that with the number of candidates usually out, there would not be sufficient time for all to speak satisfactorily to themselves and friends, upon the same day.

Speaking will therefore commence at Tecumseh to-morrow, and continue until the Saturday before the election.

The Kind for the West.

Last week a train of emigrants came and located in this county, from Indiana. Upon inquiry and acquaintance, we found the company to be one family, consisting of the head, and eight sons, six of whom were married. The old folks were anxious to have their children settle around them; consequently came where good lands were plenty and cheap. There is room for more such.

Gov. Richardson.

Gov. RICHARDSON, passed through this city, on Monday last, on his way to Quincy, Ill. He will be absent a few weeks, during which time, Mr. MORROW will occupy the position of Acting Governor.

Territorial Auditor.

In the Candidates' Column will be found the announcement of R. C. JORDAN, Esq., as a candidate for the office of Territorial Auditor. As the law requires this officer to reside at the Capital, we presume there will be no candidates out of that city, at least while the office is not sufficiently remunerative to induce a location there solely on that account.

We have an intimate acquaintance with Mr. Jordan, and take great pleasure in saying that we do not believe a more appropriate selection can be found in the Territory. He is an excellent and experienced penman and accountant, and strictly honest and upright in all his acts.

We cheerfully give place to the following testimony from two of our cotemporaries: In a card which we publish to-day, Mr. R. C. Jordan announces himself as a candidate for Auditor. Mr. Jordan is well known to our citizens and to many throughout the Territory as a gentleman of fine business talent and estimable private character—in his relations to the public in connection with the post he has held in the Land Office in this city for a year past, he has ever been correct and obliging.

No regular nomination for Auditor will be made—and it is probable that no candidate for the office will be named until a citizen of Omaha will become a candidate, as that officer is required to reside at the Capital, and the emoluments of the office will not justify the seeking of the position by any one abroad. Among our citizens, none is better qualified than Mr. J. to fill the office, and no one can rally in his support a larger number of influential and ardent friends.—Omaha Times.

"We published, some weeks since, the proclamation of Governor Richardson for a special election the first Monday in August, for Territorial Auditor. We have twice before directed attention to the fact of their being a vacancy in this office, but no convention has been called to nominate a candidate, and no one has announced his willingness to serve his country in that capacity. The Dakota Herald, some time since expressed a preference for Capt. Moore, now acting Auditor, by Gov. Richardson's appointment. Capt. Moore requests us to say that he is not a candidate for that office.

There is a man, however, living in this city, whom we consider eminently qualified for that office. We allude to Robert C. Jordan, Esq. Mr. Jordan is a gentleman of peculiar attainments, and is also a very accurate and careful business man, one who would perform the duties attached to that position with credit to himself and the entire satisfaction of the people of the Territory. The law requires the Auditor to reside at the Capital. We think, therefore, that the voters of Nebraska can do no better than to elect Mr. Jordan to that office. No better selection can be made. Hundreds of citizens of this place will vouch for the candidate. Omaha Paper.

Prairie Hay.

We are informed by a gentleman of intelligence, observation and experience; a twenty-years' resident of Illinois, that he has found the upland prairie grass hay to prove by far the most valuable for feeding work horses. Timothy hay for fattening, but prairie grass hay for wind, bottom and endurance.

The upland grass never was better in this country than it is the present season. Rain! Rain! Rain has fallen almost constantly the past week. The wheat crop is ruined almost entirely. The oats crop, very heavy, has fallen down badly. The corn could not look better.

Sun Stroke.

Mr. Wagstaff, residing in the upper part of this county, came near losing his life last week, by sunstroke. Persons whose avocation requires their exposure to the severity of this seasons' sun should not fail to wear in their hats next to their head, fresh leaves or grass, or even a wet cloth, which mode is an infallible preventative.

New Residences.

D. SINGLE has just completed a very neat residence on Main street. Judge LAKE has a fine residence proceeding rapidly to completion. We notice several other buildings in progress of erection at the west end of Main street. Don't know whose they are.

Steamer Omaha.

This popular Missouri River Boat made her appearance at our wharf yesterday morning. 'Twas pleasant to meet again the familiar and smiling faces of Capt. WIRELAND and that prince of Clerks WILCOX. We acknowledge ourselves indebted for files of St. Louis papers.

The Omaha, with many other boats, has been laying up for some time past on account of dull times. She is now going into the trade regularly again.

We are indebted to the publisher, R. BROWN, of this city for a "Map of proposed Arizona, compiled and drawn from notes of the United States Survey, and data furnished by Congressional Reports, by T. W. BEDFORD, Civil Engineer, Brownville, Nebraska," and lithographed by Jno. Schrader, Saint Louis, Missouri. The map is bound in covers suitable for the pocket, and is executed in a superior style, for which Mr. Bedford is noted.

Mr. Bedford has been engaged for some time in getting up for publication, a map of the "Nemaha Land District," of which we will speak again when completed.

HOME CORRESPONDENCE.

For the Advertiser. NEMAHA COUNTY, N. T., July 16.

Mr. Editor: As the people of this Territory will be almost daily solicited for their votes, for certain candidates for the public offices to be filled at the coming election, perhaps it will not be out of place to lay before your readers a few suggestions which I think ought to influence their choice.

As freemen and citizens the settlers of this Territory, for whose benefit alone the Territorial Government, with all its power and privileges was instituted, cannot absolve themselves from an individual responsibility, for the evils which have resulted and may result from permitting their Legislative rights to be controlled by dishonest, unworthy, immoral and irresponsible men. The people—the actual settlers—are alone legally invested with the Legislative power of the Territory. It was the design of the framers of our organic laws, that the people who came here, and settled upon these wild lands, should have the privilege of forming and perfecting their own domestic institutions, and of adopting such a course of Legislative policy as should seem most expedient for them. Invested with these privileges, the citizens of a new Territory ought to take a deep and lively interest in every movement which can influence their local policy, and social institutions. They are more directly concerned in the public affairs of the Territory at the present time, than they ever can be hereafter, inasmuch as it is easier and better to avoid mistakes in forming and adopting the laws and institutions of a state than it is to correct or reform abuses already established. But how has it been, thus far in our history? Have the people in this Territory made a proper use of their Legislative power? Have they dictated the legislation of the Government? It cannot be justly affirmed that the legislative policy of this Territory has been approved by the people. A candid review of the legislative history of the Territory since it first assumed its limited privileges of self-government, exhibits a sad picture of the evil consequences of attempting to carry on the machinery of a free government without regarding the private interests of the people. But the people themselves are alone responsible for these evils, for whatever other causes may have contributed to these results, they are chiefly attributable to a remissness and apathy in regard to public affairs among the people themselves. Instead of exercising a judicious care in their choice of public officers, they have allowed the most important interests of the Territory to fall into the hands of demagogues, speculators, and political hucksters; and we have seen that either through the ignorance, stupidity, or dishonesty of our legislators, the major part of the legislations of this Territory has been directly for the benefit of private individuals, and either directly or indirectly detrimental to the interests of the settle.

Charters, franchises, corporations, and stock-jobbing institutions of all sorts, seem to have had the special care of the Legislature. We have seen our statute books filled with enactments for charters and special privileges, and statutes prefixed for their better protection.

The legislative authority of the Territory having been thus perverted to the base purpose of stock gambling, the next scene in the farce exhibits our worthy Solons quarrelling with each other, as to the manner in which these immunities and privileges shall be enjoyed by themselves and patrons. Here a committee is divided; there a franchise granted; at another place a chartered institution established, and all for the benefit of some imaginary town-site, or for some swindling broker's concern in New York, or Ohio or Illinois. And, in their wrangling over these important affairs, we find their deliberations sometimes enlivened by scenes of disorder and boyish trickery altogether beneath the dignity and character of men, and sometimes by acts and proceedings only becoming blacklegs and rowdies.

Our last election efforts were made to correct these abuses. Many of the members of the last Legislature were men of ability and reliable character, and it was hoped that a new era of affairs would be inaugurated at the Capital, and a new leaf would be turned in our legislative records. But the result only shows how firmly had this system of partial legislation become established. By force and fraud, a miserable minority were enabled to block the wheels of legislation and presumed to impose conditions upon the people's representatives, that unless they would forbear to act upon certain measures the business of the legislature should not proceed. These unwarrantable assumptions were investigated by the same influences which had controlled our previous legislation, but were defeated in a manner, which showed that the people had a voice in that assembly, and would be heard and respected.

A Thousand Thanks.

Are due our friend J. C. REAVES, Esq., of Falls City, who has recently been a visit to St. Louis, for the action and efficient interest in behalf of the "Advertiser." He procured for us one hundred and fifty dollars advertising patronage. Such friends are "friends indeed." Mr. Reaves can draw on us "at sight" for any reciprocal favor or number of favors he chooses.

Thanks.

The chairman of a committee appointed at a previous meeting for that purpose, reported the following, which was adopted and signed by most of those present.

Resolutions. 1. That the object of the Nemaha County Mutual Claim Association, shall be the mutual protection and assistance of its members in securing their lands.

2. Any settler can become a member by signing these articles and complying with the same, and also with a voice of a majority of the members expressed on any matter relative to the objects of this Society.

3. The officers of the Society shall consist of an Executive Committee of 5 members of the Association, whose duties shall be to make the most favorable arrangements for the purchase of land warrants, and that they comply with the rules and regulations of the Society.

4. These articles are subject to alteration, addition or amendment, at any meeting at which a majority of the members be present.

On motion of Mr. Hackett, a committee of three was appointed to report resolutions for the action of this meeting. Hackett, Furnas and Vesser appointed said committee, who reported the following which were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That an Executive Committee as provided for in Art. 3 of the Constitution, be appointed by this meeting, who shall proceed forthwith to make the most favorable arrangements for the purchase of land warrants for the use of members of this association.

Resolved, That the committee, after gaining all the information possible within the time, shall meet again at Glen Rock, on Saturday July 24, at 1 o'clock, at which time and place members and others are invited to attend and decide upon propositions that may be submitted by dealers in warrants.

Resolved, That a copy of the Constitution be placed in the hands of each member of the Executive Committee for the purpose of receiving signatures.

The meeting appointed the following named gentlemen as the Executive committee: M. Stowell, E. Reid, R. Irwin, H. Crawford and John Long.

On motion the proceedings were ordered to be published in the Nebraska Advertiser, and the meeting adjourned to meet at this place, (Glen Rock,) on Saturday July 24th. W. F. BALL, Chm. R. W. FURNAS, Secretary.

By the latest accounts from California, we learn that the excitement still continues about the rich discoveries of gold on Frazier river. These mines are in the British possessions, and are about eight hundred or a thousand miles north of San Francisco, from which port alone it is supposed that at least two thousand persons have already sailed for Frazier river. No tidings of their success have yet been received.

Dickens is separated from his wife, Balwer from his wife, and Charles Reed (of Peg Wellington and White Lies notoriety) is living with another man's wife. From the days of the poet Job, whose wife was the original Mrs. Caudle, down to Socrates and Xantippe and so on down to Milton and Byron, and finally to Charles Dickens, matrimonial unhappiness has ever been attached to literary men.

Mrs. Breckenridge, wife of the Vice President of the United States, died at New Orleans a few days since. She has been an invalid for many months and went South in hopes of recovery.
