Henry Clay's Sentiments.

The adjoined is an extract from a speech which Henry Clay delivered at Frankfort, Kentucky, on the 25th of November,

"If the agitation in regard to the fugitive slave law should continue and increase, and become alarming, it will tend to the fermation of two new parties-one for Union and the other against the Union. Present parties have been created by the division of opinions as regard systems of national policy, and as to finance, free trade, or protection, the improvement of rivers and harbors, the distribution of the prices. Old family Bibles recound so as to look and proceeds of the public lands, &c.; but these systems of policy, springing out of the adminstration of the Government of FLOURING MILL the Union, lose all their interest and importance if that Union is to be dissolved. They sink into atter insignificance before the all-important, prevasive, and paramount interest of the Union itself; and the Platform of that Union party will be the Union, the Constitution, and the enforcement of its laws; and if it should be necessary to form such a party, and it should be accordingly formed, I announce inyself as a member of that party, whatever may be its component elements .--Sir, I go further. Thave had great hopes and confidence in the principles of the Whig party, as being most likely to conduce to the honor, the prosperity, and the glory of my country; but if it is to be merged into a contemptible abolition produce is unsurpassed on the River. party, and if abolitionism is on the Whig creed, from that moment I renounce the purty and cease to be a Whig."
