Merry Old Age. Coronado was merry at ninety-five; he studied Greek at eighty; Charles Kemble did the same, or rather "brushed-up," his old Greek when he was nearly as old as Cato; Cibber, when still older, merrily replied to one who declared that he looked well, that at "eighty-four it was well that he looked at all."

American Generals. Washington was a surveyor, and, in after life, a farmer; Knox was a book-binder and stationer; Morgan was a blacksmith; Gates, who opened Burgoyne's eyes to the fact that he could not "march through the United States with five thousand men," was a regular-buff soldier.

LATER.—It is not known how many were killed or wounded in the unfortunate collision of the Federal troops previous to marching on the Great Bethel. The loss was however considerable. The fire of our troops on masked battery did apparently very little execution.
