Crops In Kansas.

It is said that crops never looked better anywhere than they do in Kansas this season. Both Fall and Spring Wheat Solicitor in Chancery yield an abandant harvest. Many contradiciory statements were made last winter and Spring, as to the suffering conduion of the prople on account of the failure of the crops last season. There is but little doubt, however, but that there was much suffering; and that all that was sent them from the States was needed, ending July 1st, 1861.
