For the children of the tribes of the oth had rebelled against their brethren and against the Government of their amers, saying. What portion have we in Lincoln, and we have none inheritance in and scraped his foot upon the floor.

And the children of the tribes of the each from the hill country in the East, the great sea on the West, gathered ether as one man, even five hundred nd fifty-six thousand and twenty and five ien of war, to fight the Seshites that welleth southward of the river Potomac. 4. And the Seshites likewise gathered arether a mighty army.

5. And there were certain violent men alled Boanerges or Jahockites that llowed after the armies of the South and the armies of the North.

6. And they gathered from their enemies much spoil of corn, and wine, and fine linen, and silver, and gold, and horses, and contrabands. 7. Now the name of one of these was
