FROM MR. J. J. M. TO MRS. E. J. M. Tune "Darkeyed One." Best loved one and fairest I though now far apart, Thy image is cherished within my foud heart, The angel that hovers above all my dreams, Whose face with the light of affection so gleams

It's beauty drives off the foul visions of care,

Relieving my senses from grief and dispair.

I think of thee hourly, and bright in my heart, Best loved one! thy image hath over a part. Best loved one and fairest ! how is it with thee, Doth memory ever remind thee of me? Of one who hath left thee with deepest regret, And absent can never thoe, desrest, forget; Though serving my country in harships and strifs, In perils and battles exposing my life, I think of thee hourly, and bright in my heart, Best loved one, thy image hath ever a part.

Best loved one and fairest! if thou wert but near These woods like a paradise bright would appear, The bloom of the flowers, fresh pleasures impart, The notes of the wild songster thrill thro' my heart Thy voice in these solitudes then would be heard, Much sweeter to me than the song of the bird; I think of the hourly, and bright in my heart, Best loved one, thy image bath ever a part.

Best loved one and fairest! short may the time be, For me to remain so far severed from thee; On wings of the eagle, oh ! fast may it fly ! And I be permitted unto thee to hie; The pange of our parting forgotten remain, The joy of our meeting reward all our pais, I think of thee hourly, and bright in my heart, Best loved one! thy image bath ever a part.

Best lov'd one and fairest! may heav'ns bright smile Thy pathway illumine and keep thee from guiles Its surest protection be over thee thrown, Thy future with pleasures and blessings be strown. When thro' with this life, in a bright world above, May we be united forever in love. I think of thee hourly, and bright in my heart, Best loved one ! thy mage hath ever a part.

Coming Home. They are coming home, coming home, Brother and lover, father and son,

Friend and foe, they are coming home, To rest, for their work is done. They come from hospital, picket and field, From iron boat and forwning port, In silent companies, slowly wheeled,

In the rythm of a solemn thought. This was a father of women and men, Gray-haired, but hale and strong of limb; The bayonet flashed and flashed again, And the old man's eyes grewdim.

Here was a form of manly grace; The bomb-shell growning through the air, Drenched with his bleed a pictured face,

And a curl of silken bair. This was a bright-eyed venturesome boy: Back from the perilous picket guard They bore him, waked from his dream of joy, Zewghnatly, fatal wound

And thus, for three days linguing, He talked in wandering, rapid speach, Of mother, and home, and the cooling spring. His tips could almost reach. They are coming home, but not as they went,

. With the flying flag, and stirring band, With the tender word and message sent, From the distant, waving hand. Up the steps and into the door,

With his den faces our loved one comen; We may cry their names out o'er and e'er, e But their pallid lips are dumb.

O, friends, untimely snatched from hence, May we find, beyond heaven's lowering dome, Some blissful future recompense, For this sorrowful coming home !
