The Rebel Gov. sends Vice Presient Stephens to Washington, to propose Terms of Peace.

Never since the commencement of the War has there been such a streak of good lack, and so much glorious news, as during the past week. Vicksburg, the great stronghold on the Mississippi, and the most importent place in the Confederacy, at last succums to Grant's bravery and strategy-18,000 prisoners were there taken and parolled. In Tennessee a great foot-race is taking place between Rosecrans and one of the very best regiments in the Bragg; the latter running over the service, the regiment that has carried the mountains for dear life. In Arkansas flag of Nebraska in triumph, over the Union. At the request of the as-

But the strangest news of all is a special dispatch to the N. Y. Herald, portonity to do so. which states that Vice President Stephens, and another Commissioner, came into our lines on James River, under a flag of truce, with dispatches from Jeff. Davis for President Lincoln. At latest dates the Cabinet were discussing the question whether it were proper to receive them or not.

At 8 o'clock the morning of the 3d, a flag of truce appeared before Gen. Grant's front-when the rebel Maj. Gen. Bowen and Col. Montgomery were led blind-fold into our lines. They bore a communication from Gen. Pemberton to Gen. Grant, of the following purports: Although I feel confident in my ability to resist your arms indefinitely, in order to stop the further effusion of blood, I propose that you appoint three commissioners to meet three which I shall select to arrange terms as may best accomplish that result. Grant replied substantially in these words, that the appointment of, commissioners was unneccessary, while I should be glad to stop the unnecessary effusion of blood, the only terms which I can entertain are those of unconditional surrender. At the same time, myself, officers and men, are ready to acknowledge the gallantry with which the defence of Vicksburg has been conducted. At 11 o'clock the messengers returned. This afternoon, in accordance with the request from Gen. Pemberton, Gen. Grant met him outside the lines. After an hour's consultation they settled the terms of surrender .-P emberton urged that his soldiers might be paroled and allowed rations for their own stores to carry them to the confederate lines. In view of the bravery displayed by the troops,—the advantages of the place and from a consideration of enconomy, Grant finally conseted to Pemberton's request. The officers were each allowed a horse and a servant. The number of prisoners is said to be 18,000-two thirds of whom are in fighting condition. The immediate cause of the surrender is the exhaustion of supplies and ammumnition, and the failure of Johnston to come to their nid.
