Poetry.
'Tis Sweet to be Remembered.

Oh! 'tis sweet to be remembered,
In the merry days of youth,
When the world seems full of brightness,
And the love retains its truth.

Oh! 'tis sweet to be remembered,
In the summer days of life,
When we seek the burning sunlit
With our weight of woe and strife.

Oh! 'tis sweet to be remembered,
When our youth is left behind,
And every morning sun we meet
May leave us with a sigh.

Miscellaneous.
Gen. Scott's Autobiography.

Sheldon & Co. have just published the "Memoirs of Gen. Scott, written by himself," which have been promised for seven months, and on which the General has been engaged for nearly two years.

This is to be regretted—not that the thirst for blood was not slaked on the occasion; but because, there never having been an execution in the United States for the highest of crimes, our people, were, in 1832 and 1831, still untaught a most useful lesson—the playing a treason is a dangerous game!

Now victories are judged.
When the victory of Buena Vista reached Major General Brooke, (a noble soldier,) commanding at New Orleans, and a friend of Major General Taylor, he rushed with the report in hand through the streets to the Exchange, and threw the whole city into a frenzy of joy.

By and by came the news that the stars and stripes waved over Vera Cruz and its castle, and Brooke, also a friend of mine, was again eager to spread the report. Somebody in the crowd called out, "How many men has Scott lost? Brooke was delighted to reply, "Less than a hundred." "That won't do," was promptly rejoined, "Taylor always loses thousands. He is the man for my money."

Only a few faint cheers were heard for Vera Cruz. The long butcher's bill was wanted. When I received friend Brooke's letter giving these details, I own that my poor human nature was piqued for a moment; and I said: "Never mind, Taylor is a Louisiana man. We shall in due time hear the voice of the middle, the northern and eastern States. They will estimate victories on different principles."

GEN. SCOTT'S WARNING TO BUCHANAN.
October 22.—I emphatically, as has been seen, called the attention of the President to the necessity of strong garrisons in all the forts below the principal commercial cities of the Southern States, including, by name, the forts in Pensacola harbor, etc.

News from Rebel Sources.
Richmond papers of Saturday, Dec. 3d, have been received within our lines.

A dispatch from Braxton Bragg, dated August 2d, says that he has a telegram of that date from Hardee, who says that he had met and defeated the Cavalry force sent out from Besaufort by the enemy. They had been driven back toward the latter place. He is anticipating, he says, another attack at another point on the Savannah and Charleston railroad.

The Richmond Examiner of the 2d, editorially has the following: "All news from Georgia is exceedingly encouraging. A few days ago it was reported that the Yankees had reached Millen, and there was every prospect that Sherman would reach the coast. This is false, and if Sherman gets through now, which is doubtful, it will be with the loss of half of his army."

Head Quarters Army of Northern Virginia, Dec. 2, 1864.
Gen. Early reports that Gen. Rosser, with Raines' and his own brigade, encountered, on the 27th ult., near Moorfield, a small party of the enemy, and captured forty prisoners and one piece of artillery.

On the 28th he surprised and captured Fort Kelly, at New Creek, with four field pieces and four siege guns and between seven and eight hundred prisoners, a large number of horses and mules, eight stands of colors and destroyed two hundred wagons, and a quantity commissary and ordnance stores.

The Richmond Sentinel of the 3d, contains a series of peace resolutions, presented in the North Carolina Legislature by one Poole. They are as follows:
Resolved: That five Commissioners be elected by the General Assembly, to act with Commissioners from other States of this Confederacy, as a medium for negotiating peace with the United States.

The Whig of the 3d, contains a telegram from Petersburg, stating that Lee had not demanded Pryor's release. Gen. Wilcox, commanding where Pryor was captured while violating the orders of both armies, and in retaliation for the capture of officer Burbridge under similar circumstances, adding that Pryor could not be released.

The Daily Dispatch of the 3d, says Grants movements on Lee's right seem to be important. It records the burning of Stony Creek depot, and the destruction of the Weldon railroad, twenty miles below Petersburg. Their accounts confirm ours.

The Cincinnati Gazette learns that General Butler's proposition to exchange Pollard, of the Richmond Enquirer, for A. D. Richardson, of the New York Tribune, has been refused.

In Paris alone there are at this moment no less than 60,000 men who have no other religion or creed than that of spiritism, or as we call it, "spiritualism." There the belief is as thoroughly organized a system as any sect of the Christian religion. It has its disciples, its priests etc., as well as its papers, reviews, publications of all sorts, with editors and bookellers of its own.

The Great West.
When Gen. Taylor was chosen President, only sixteen years ago, he did not receive a single Electoral Vote from the States lying north and west from the river Ohio.

Abraham Lincoln, favored by the dissensions among his opponents, carried all those States in 1860, some of them by meagre majorities, but received scarcely a tenth of the Popular Vote of Missouri. Now, he carries every one of them by generally increased majorities, and Missouri with them by a very decided vote.

These States gave an aggregate popular majority against Lincoln in 1860; they now give not less than 240,000 for him, with gains of Members of Congress in every State where there was anything left to gain.

The vote of the North-West is the strongest guaranty yet proffered of the perpetuity of the Union. The alienation of the North-West has been plotted and sought for years. To this end uncounted lodges of "Knights of the Golden Circle," "Sons of Liberty," &c., have been organized.

So let us rest in the confident assurance that the Union will endure forever, under the guardianship and protection of the Great because Free North-West!

Old Massachusetts—the cradle of American liberty—has even surpassed herself in the recent election. The vote for President, in 307 towns, stands as follows:
Lincoln 110,087
McClellan 49,273

Lincoln's majority, 70,814
The Congressional delegation stands—Union 10—Democ. none.

Would Lose Fifty Thousand Dollars.
If a military officer puts in an application for a furlough on the simple ground of urgent private business, he is about as likely to get it as he is by being struck by lightning.

The result of the election in the Territory is eighteen hundred majority for the Democrats. The Territorial election occurred on the first. Colonel Sam. McLean, formerly of Mountain City, Colorado, was given the above majority, over Sanders, Republican.

The Next Congress.
The next Congress will contain an overwhelming Union Majority in both branches.

The Senate will be constituted, politically, as follows:
Unionists 58
Democrats 7

The House will be divided as follows:
Union Dem.
Maine 6 0
N. Hampshire 3 0
Vermont 3 0
Massachusetts 10 0
Rhode Island 2 0
Connecticut 4 0
New York 21 10
New Jersey 2 3
Pennsylvania 18 6
Maryland 4 2
West Virginia 3 0
Ohio 17 2
Indiana 8 3
Illinois 10 4
Iowa 6 0
Wisconsin 6 1
Minnesota 2 0

All of the Territories send Union Delegates, as follows:
Nebraska 1 0
Colorado 1 0
Dakota 1 0
Utah 1 0
Montana 1 0
Idaho 1 0
New Mexico 1 0
Washington 1 0
Total 8 0

The House of Representatives will stand nearly four to one in favor of an amendment of the Constitution of the United States, abolishing Slavery in all the States.

Gen. Stanley's Account of the Battle of Franklin.
Maj. Gen. Stanley, wounded in the battle at Franklin, arrived at Cincinnati on the 4th inst. He says the reports of the battle that have reached the public have not been exaggerated.

They left Pulaski, November 23, and were so closely pressed that it was feared at one time that the artillery and wagon trains would have to be abandoned, but by good management all were brought through safely.

Gen. Stanley has been in nearly all the battles in Tennessee and Georgia, but says the musketry fire, for an hour, at Franklin, was the most intense he ever witnessed.

The Commercial's Nashville dispatch says: Murfreesboro, Bridgeport, and Chattanooga are safe.

The advance of the rebel army necessitated the destruction of their property. The Federal position is perfectly satisfactory.

The Southern papers call Sherman's venture a desperate case of chance. Very likely, but he made his first "point" in taking Atlanta, "passed" Hood into Alabama, "scoured" him in the next deal, holding "both bowers and an ace," he is playing a "long hand," and "making a march," with every prospect of "going out."
