We understand that the M. E. Conference, lately in session at Nebraska City, have appointed Rev. Mr. Hart to this circuit for the ensuing year. Mr. Hart was here some years ago, and gave most general satisfaction.

The St. Joseph Daily Herald is one of the most spirited, loyal and uncompromising Union dailies in the West. Its columns are filled with the latest news, sound editorials, and matters of general interest to western men.

Atkinson & Co., are doing the largest Clothing business west of the Missouri. Their stock is the best and most complete ever offered in this market, and warrants us in recommending all who desire anything in their line to go there and get goods at greatly reduced prices.

Barne's large Warehouse just opposite this City, is a good institution. Already have river men found this out, and goods for all parts of Arkansas county are landed there daily. It wouldn't be slow for a big Union dance for Atchison and Nebraska counties, either, when finished.

Spring, with a fair sprinkling of its natural greenness, is upon us. The grass is fairly shooting up out of the ground, and the trees are leaving, while garden sassa has just been put to bed, and all kinds of shrubbery is being well-trimmed.

J. Berry & Co., have received a splendid and large assortment of New Goods, consisting of the choicest Dry Goods, Groceries, Furniture, Hardware, Cutlery, Queensware, Hardware, and everything that can be desired, and which they are selling at prices which are within the reach of all.

This week, so far, the emigration passing through our City, has been unusually brisk, and most are going to settle in this or adjoining counties west. Nearly all have more or less sheep, horses and castle, which, as a general thing, will be a good addition to the stock of the Territory. Many of them are from Indiana, Ohio, and other States, while few that we have spoken of are from the copper-head portions of Missouri.

Rev. S. L. Collins has just left our Territory, having sold out here and bought a splendid farm near Amazonia, Andrew county, Mo. He has been one of our most unflinching Union men, and his leaving will be regretted by all who knew him. He sold his place here for $2,500, it is ten miles west of this city, 160 acres, with 80 under cultivation. Success attend him in the vine-yard of the Lord.

On last Tuesday afternoon, while our County Court was in Session, it became necessary for the Clerk to be out for a few moments, and on returning he found no Commissioners, and they have not been seen or heard from since. Various speculations are indulged in as to their whereabouts, and much anxiety for their safety is felt. Many suppose that the great Prestigitor, Haskell, Ambidextrously spirited them away. Any information, which may lead to their discovery, will be gratefully received at the Clerk's Office, and no questions asked.

Our City Election, last Monday, went off very quietly. The following are the officers elected for the ensuing year:

For Mayor—C. G. Dorsey. Councilmen—A. P. Cogswell, S. R. Jameson, John H. Morrison, D. H. McLaughlin and W. G. Glasgow.

Clerk—W. W. Hackney. Marshall and Street Commissioner—Chancey P. Richardson.

Treasurer—Wm. H. Hoover. Assessor—R. T. Rainey. Civil Engineer—Theo. W. Bedford.

The only contest was on Marshall and Street Commissioner, Mr. Richardson; but had these offices been disconnected—as they should be—he would have had no opposition. We expect to see the hill at the foot of Atlantic street, and hills on the side-walks on Main street, vanishing before the new Council. Foot crossings are needed in several places on Main street—especially when its middy.

Spencer, explains the significance of the engraving. Then we have the usual richly colored double Fashion Plate. Then a variety of other engravings of the fashions, work table, &c. Then for music, a song, "I Built a Bridge of Fancies." Then the usual amount of literary matter, including "Lavinia's Education," by Julia Gill; "A Story of a Household," by Mrs. Hoamer; "Larry O'Leary's Ghost" by Emma M. Johnston; "Two Kisses" by Ida Mason; "An Everyday Story," by Leslie Walter; Novels for April, Editor's Department, New Books, Receipts, Fashions, &c. &c.

Houden, the greatest Ambidextrous Prestigitor, has been here; Richmond and Petersburg have been captured; yet it would be impossible to tell, from the general topic of conversation yesterday morning, which was the greatest event, we think Houden's slightly ahead. His performances gave unbounded satisfaction, and one very good evidence of his success was that, although he had a good house in the afternoon, at night it was literally jammed. His performance was generally of a superior class of trick to what one generally sees in this kind of exhibitions, yet some few of his feats border strangely close upon the miraculous; for instance, the feat styled the Sleeping Arab, in which one of the performers is seated upon a chair, which is placed upon a table on the stage, and put to sleep with his elbow resting upon a slim staff, at least six feet in length, which stood upon the platform. After the Arab is asleep, his body is raised up to a horizontal position, with no support but his elbow, which is resting upon the perpendicular staff; the chair and table are removed, and Houden then passes his cane, with a swift motion, under, over and all around the sleeper, to convince the audience that the sleeper has no support, except his elbow on the staff, with his head resting upon his hand and the other hand lying extended on his side. The position of the sleeper seems easy and graceful; and this sight alone, all say, was worth ten times the admission price. Caroline Houden astonished every one with her marvelous exhibition in the mysteries of Second Sight, and the whole exhibition excited feelings of pleasure and astonishment in the audience.

We are informed by Mr. Robbins, travelling agent for Houden, that "Haskell's Show" will exhibit here again on the 1st Monday in May.
