In presenting the Automatic Organ, we boldly annonuce the createst triumph in musical instruments of the age. During the past half century, the French and Germans have manufactured reed instruments with double beliews, and two pedais for the feet to operate, but the went of the reversed or Exhansion Bellows, (which is the only bellows used mour last u-ments), made it impossible for them to produce the metiow, rich and musical tone for which our instruments are celebrated. Another objection to this method of blowing was that, both feet being occupied, no operatinity was oftered for the management of the swell. Within the past two years, instruments constructed on this Euro-centre of the instrument, to act upon the swell and operated by the knee. The inconvenience and contortion necessar, to effect this object are disagreeable enough to a gentleman, but to a lady the use of such an appendage is nearly impossible Our Automatic device obviates this difficulty entire-ly the simple act of blowing with more or less force giving the desired increase or decrease in the volume For seventeen years the superior excellence of our Melodeons has not been questioned, and for two years past the enormous demand has made it impossible for us to meet our orders promptly.
