Poetry.
Oh, What A World It Might Be!

Oh, what a world it might be,
The full of hope and love,
It might almost as bright be
As those bright continents above;
Could I, by lore or magic,
Average the burning tears,
Life should not be so tragic,
So dashed off with fears.

THE COCKNEY.
BY JOHN G. Saxe
It was in my foreign travel,
At a famous Flemish inn,
That I met a stoutish person
With a very ruddy skin;
And his hair was something curly,
And was done in knobby rings,
And was parted in the middle,
In the manner of a girl.

When I spoke of admiration
Of St. Peter's mighty dome,
He remarked: "It really nothing
To the rights we 'ave as 'ome!"
And declared upon his honor—
That he doubted if the Romans
"Ad the best of managing land!"

When I left the man in gaiters,
He was gauding 'out his gait,
At the charge of the hostess,
Of that famous, famous inn;
And he looked a very Briton,
(So, methinks I see his still)
As he pocketed the candle

Select Story.
Mr. Nasby Has a Most Horrible Vision.
SAINTS' REST, (which is in the State of New Jersey) Oct. 16, '65.
Last night, weary and disgusted with reading election returns, I picked up a volume of Cammel's Pevens, and read that splendid piece, "The Last Man."
Cammel is a poet—her ain't no doubt ov it. Ef my top parshel friends ant too parshel, I can whip him on the sublime but on the pathetic. I acknowledge him ez my superior. Be that ez it may, the poem made an impression on my mind, which iz proof that ther iz subin in it, and my mind was a dwellin onto it ez I suak into slumber.

Ex youshal I had a dream, and sich dream may I never he again.
Methan the epydemic, which ez now devastatin Europe, had struck New York. For a time, it struck down all classes.—The proud Caucasien, the hidjus nigger, the nobel red man uv the forest, and the almond eyed Chinese, all fell afore the ruthless destroyer. But at last, it abated, except for ez the nigger wuz concerned. The white man wuz spared, so wuz the Injin, and the Chinese, but among the Atriking it raged with redoubled fury. Oh, it wuz brushin!—The planter looked abroad, and lo! the stalwart feed hand, which wuz with $1,500. wuz a cold corpse, and the feed wuz unemployd. Agin he looked, and alas! the brassy wench, which allus bore a picianiny wich wuz woth $200 ez soon ez wanned, wunt per year, and by a little extra whippin, did a full year's wurd, wuz prostrate in the cold embrace of death. Agin he looked, and who tu him! the octroon for which he paid $2,500, and whose girl babies he cood sell in Nuo Orleans ez soon ez they wuz 16 for $3, on akount uv their havin hiz blood in their veins, wuz torn from hiz lovin grasp by the stronger hand uv disease, and wuznt wuth a copper fur enny purpose.

The Democree alarmed. The indefatigable leeders whispered: "The nigger iz fadin away!—sposin he becums extinct?" Whereupon a consultation uv the hed men wuz held. In view uv the crisis, a pair—one male and one female, wuz selectid and examined by a committee uv expert examiners in life insurance companies. They wuz pronounced perfect spessimens—entirely sound and free from disease. These two wuz lockt up in a room in a healthy locashun, and twenty-four uv the most eminent phisicians uv the country wuz detailed—one to stay with them one hour uv each day, that, in case the disease struck 'em, the remedies might be tawntst applied, that, from these two, the race might be propagated, and the captivite uv the party be preserved.

But to no avail. The last nigger in Yuzited States perished, and finally, these two wuz struck, and, notwithstanding the precaushuns adoptid, they too died!
There wuz a season Nacher sympathized with the party in all its afflictions. The heavens wuz clothed with leaden-colored clouds, athurt wich, ever and anon, flushed gleams uv looid life. Low-voiced thunders mottured ommissly, and birds and beasts run howlin' o'er the fields. Dray horses fell dead upon the stony streets, and wild beasts rushed fratically from their coverts, and snapped toothlessly, madly, at waterer came in their way.

The last uv the Afrinkins wuz fayin prostrate in the hall. Fernandy Wood entered, and ez he seed 'em, he bustid into tears. "Farewell," gushed he, "a long farewell, last uv a cusid race! You wuz our tower uv strength; you wuz our corner ston; on you we bided! Hated uv you giv me the Irish vote uv Nuo York. O, how cheert it wuz to see them lambs bust up yer heads, and innocently hang you up to lamp posts!—But you'm gone—yoo'm gone—and hentzild life's a blank to me. Farewell razid world! for what is life without a nigger!" and seizin a jack-knife he suak stickin into the nigger's pocket, he stuck it in2 hiz stumnick, and, fallin across the deceest Afrinkins, expired peacefully.

Franklin Peereer approach. "Alas! and art thou gone? Troo, troo, thou art! In life thou wurst lovely! 'Twas thou, alone, that made me President; thy wolly hed wuz my steppin-ston to place and power! Thou wast my right bower my left, and ace! Ef I wuz a Dimecratic Sampson, thou wast the hair wich the Deltier, Death, hez sheered off. Fernandy, I cum! I cum!" and seizin the jack-knife from hiz hand, he plunged it into his bowels, fallin across Fernandy.

Vallandigham approach. "I, too, must, say farewell," said he, kissin their cold features, "for thou wast my anker.—Thou, 'twast, who made me Congress-man—thou exiled me, and hate uv they gave me $30,000 in ten cent pieces when I wuz in Canada. Do I want to go to Congress agin? No! no! no! I should be dum, for the main-spring uv my eloquence lies there?" and, takin the jack-knife, he immersed it in his bowels, and fell across Peereer.

Old Jeemes Bookannon, and Voorhees and Brite, and Florence, and, in fact, all the leaders uv the party North, to the number uv subin over 300, cum up and, each main a shert orashun, stuck theirselves with the jack-knife, fell across each other, ez card-wood iz piled. Finally, I felt it a duty I owed to the party to foller soot. Seizen the jack-knife, I made my orashun, (wich wuz teecheid!) and wuz about to sever my intestines, when I seed a quart tottle sickin out uv the nigger's pocket. Drawin it 4th, I pulled the cork. Glory! it wuz whiskey.—Two snaks, and it wuz gone—the rockt spun round, and I fell recedles on the top uv the piv wud Dimecrats.

Just then Horns Greely cum in. "Be hold Democreey," said he, "ez it wuz in the beginnin, so it is in the endin—"

Several of our citizens returned last week from a visit to the Great Saucken Lake, which is situated in the Cascade Mountains, about seventy-five miles north-east from Jacksonville. This lake rivals the famous Valley of Simbad the Sailor. It is thought to average two thousand feet down to the water all round. The walls are almost perpendicular, running down into the water and leaving no beach. The depth of the water is unknown, and its surface is smooth and untroubled, as it lies so far below the surface of the mountain that the air currents do not affect it. Its length is estimated at twelve miles, and its width at ten. There is an island in the center, having trees upon it. No living man ever has, and probably never will, be able to reach the water's edge. It lies silent, still and mysterious in the bosom of the "everlasting hills," like a hugh well scooped out by the hands of a giant genti of the mountains, in the unknown ages gone by, and around it the primeval forest watch and are keeping.

The visiting party fired a rifle several times into the water, at an angle of forty-five degrees, and were able to note several seconds of time from the report of the gun until the ball struck the water. Such seems incredible, but it is vouched for by some of our most reliable citizens. The lake is certainly a most remarkable curiosity.—Jacksonville Oregon Sentinel.

Speaking of the horse Dexter's trotting a mile in 2:18 1-5, Wilkes' Spirit says:
"The mile made by this horse is the fastest ever performed by a trotter, and of course, takes place on the record as such. In this regard it displaces the 2m. 19 2-3s. of Flora Temple, though we are inclined to think that all things considered the latter remains the best performance. It must be understood that we rate the value of a performance by the way of going, and the saddle is, in our judgment, the fastest and most natural way for a horse to go. Inasmuch, however, as Dexter is also a capital harness and wagon horse, and quite young, being only seven years old, it is not improbable that he will some day equal Flora's time in harness." He is not a mere brushing horse, but ere that can rate high all through the mile."

Two damsels passing through a depot a day or two since, were having an animated discussion on the subject of coffee. One exclaimed, "What do you think, Maria? I took me thirty-five minutes, this morning, to make my water-fall!"
"Dare are," said a sable orator, addressing his brethren, "two roads trod this world; do one am a broad and narrow road that leads to perdition, and the oder a narrow and broad road that leads sure destruction."
"Ef dat am de case," said a sable hearer, "dis culler individual takes to de woods."

An editorial article in the Charleston Courier on the recent elections in the North, contains the following passage:
"Politicians who take their cue from such men as Vallandigham, and applauded the merits of the Chicago platform, will be very sure to fail in any Federal election. Possibly these men may think they are doing the South a service by still clinging to these ridiculous and false notions, whereas just the contrary is true. The South will be said if the North will support President Johnson.— It does not ask if the voters or victors are Democrats or Republicans, so long as they stand true to the Government. It is time this Chicago platform was kicked into oblivion. It would be far better for the South to seek protection of the most radical of the Republicans than to allow itself to be hambugged by the Copperhead faction."
